

UN Troops Rescue Lumumba from Congo Lynch Mob

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Patrice Lumumba narrowly escaped being lynched by a mob of Congolese soldiers Thursday.

They tried to seize the premier after he had sought refuge in the officers' mess of the Ghanaian troops serving with the United Nations force in the Congo. The Ghanaian troops fought them back.

Seven hours later the police force under the control of Col.

Joseph Mobutu, who has emerged as a possible strongman in the chaotic Congo, drove Lumumba through the mob still screaming for his death to his residence.

Lumumba was forced to seek the protection of the Ghanaian troops after Congolese soldiers in Camp Leopold suddenly turned on him while he was trying to drum up support among them to counter Mobutu's bid to put the army in control of the country.

The Congolese were infuriated by reports of casualties among their families in Kasai province.

At least 1,000 persons were reported killed and thousands wounded in the action between Lumumba's troops and secession-minded Baluba tribesmen in Kasai before the UN announced a truce last Saturday. Many of the Congolese soldiers here are Balubas.

Lumumba went to the UN whose troops he has ordered out of the country several times for protection. The UN

Ghanaian troops took him to their officers' mess.

66 Flying Columns Ready for Crisis

Capsule Lost Again

HONOLULU (UPI)—The found-again, lost-again capsule ejected Wednesday from Discoverer XV satellite has disappeared in stormy seas in the Pacific, leaving little chance for its recovery.

A small search party of three airplanes and a ship combed the turbulent area around Christmas Island yesterday, but chances were it might already have sunk.

NO SPECULATION

The air force declined to speculate on the 300-pound capsule's fate, saying only that it was made to float at least 48 hours.

Last reception of the capsule's light beacon and radio homing signal was made at noon after surging seas earlier prevented a circling amphibious plane from landing and plucking it from the water.

BITTER BLOW

Loss of contact with the orange-crate-sized capsule loaded with instruments was a bitter blow to the air force, which had hoped to snag it for the third straight recovery of a Discoverer capsule.

The capsule's ejection Wednesday from orbiting Discoverer XV was successful, but a waiting flotilla of ships and planes near here failed to sight it parachuting to earth and it was feared lost.

OTTAWA (CP)—Army headquarters has devised a master plan for organization and location of the 66 mobile columns it will form for civil defence operations, informed sources said Thursday.

The plan now is in the hands of the army's four major commands across the country for study and comment. It has not yet been formally adopted or approved by the government.

RESPONSIBILITIES

The army assumed its new responsibilities for civil defence—or national survival, as the army calls it—Sept. 1, 1959. No mobile columns are yet functioning.

Forty-four of the mobile columns will be drawn from the militia and 22 from the regular army. They will be of battalion group size, some 800 men.

MAIN TASKS

Main tasks of these columns will be radiation detection, reconnaissance and rescue, known as the Triple-R assignment.

The army has already stocked enough radiation de-

OUTSIDE CITIES

The mobile columns will be located outside major cities and target areas so that they would be able to swing into rescue action immediately. This will mean emphasis on militia units which have their headquarters in small towns.

RCAF auxiliary squadrons equipped with light transport planes will also be used in the national survival role. The government now has on order planes for this purpose.

RESCUE TEAMS

Each army mobile column will comprise a number of rescue companies of some 150 men each, a support company and a headquarters company. The columns will be able to operate independently.

Victory in Atlin Boosts CCF Total To 16 B.C. Seats

The CCF increased its membership in the British Columbia legislature to 16 Thursday with the election of CCF candidate Frank Calder in far northern Atlin riding, three days after B.C.'s general election.

Japanese Says:

Welcome Mat Out For Ike

OTTAWA (CP)—Japanese Foreign Minister Kosaka said Thursday he believes there would be no recurrence of the riots and disorders of last May and June if President Eisenhower visited Japan today.

90 MINUTES

Mr. Kosaka, who is here for talks with External Affairs Minister Green, spoke at a press conference through an interpreter. He held a 90-minute conference with Mr. Green and spent about 20 minutes earlier with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The discussions with Mr. Green covered trade relations between Canada and Japan, he said, but they did not get into specific details. Japan has agreed to hold down exports to Canada in certain sensitive items such as textiles which are competitive with Canadian products.

IMPORT QUOTAS

Toru Hagiwara, Japanese ambassador to Canada who attended the press conference, said some new requests had been made for import quotas on certain products but negotiations still were going on between the two governments.

He declined to specify the quotas on transistor radios and rubber footwear also had been under discussion since the first of this year and no quota had been set on them for 1961.

With 14 of the 15 polls counted in the sparsely populated riding, Mr. Calder had 334 votes to 250 for William Asselstine, Social Credit member of the last legislature. Conservative candidate Charles Brown had 119.

Only 13 voters were registered in the last of the 15 polls.

Barring a chance through recounts, the standing in the next legislature will be: Social Credit 32, CCF 16, Liberals 4, Total 52.

Mr. Calder's victory represented the fifth seat taken by CCF from Social Credit in last Monday's election.

Social Credit held 38 seats when the last legislature was dissolved, the CCF 10 and the Liberals two, with one Independent Labor member and one vacancy.

Atlin was the last constituency to report.

Returning officer Peter Svedberg had to travel by plane and river boat among more than a half-dozen polling places to gather ballots, many of them from Indian reserves.

Mr. Calder, 45, became the first Indian to sit in the B.C. legislature in 1949 when he won the 60,000-square-mile riding for the CCF. He was re-elected in 1952 and 1953, but was defeated by Mr. Asselstine in 1956.

The battle between Mr. Calder and his 63-year-old opponent had been close until Thursday night, when three more polls reported.

With 10 of the 15 polls in, the two candidates had each received 244 votes. Two more polls gave Mr. Calder a seven-vote margin—257 to 250. Not a single one of the 77 votes in the next three polls went Mr. Asselstine.

NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV ... entirely new

Nikita Full Of Ideas

LONDON (UPI)—Nikita S. Khrushchev has some "entirely new" disarmament proposals as alternatives to his four-year plan, Russian diplomats in London said yesterday.

The Soviet premier, who will arrive in New York Monday for the United Nations General Assembly, was reported to have several arms cut ideas. Western diplomats said there was no doubt he would try for a propaganda victory by parading before the assembled nations as the chief advocate of peace through disarmament.

The sources indicated that Khrushchev's proposals would be variations of the theme he expounded at the UN in New York one year ago when he called for total disarmament in four years.

According to the sources, he still basically wants the West to accept that plan. But to make it more palatable he has introduced modifications and has made the time limit subject to negotiation.

Suspects Captured $13,000 Recovered

MONTREAL (CP)—Bandits Thursday staged an unsuccessful holdup at a branch of the Royal Bank in southwest Montreal as the city's crime wave went into its fifth successive day.

Two suspects were arrested following the holdup—the third this week in the city—at the bank's Wellington Street branch.

PILLOW CASES

Police also recovered at least $13,000 in bills, stuffed in two pillow cases, and two guns and a car.

In another holdup, a University of Montreal messenger was robbed of $6,014 in cash and $52,900 in cheques by two men who drove him and his truck into a curb in west Montreal. The money was fees for about 400 students collected Wednesday during registration.

FIVE OR SIX

The Royal Bank bandits—reported to number five or six—entered the bank and covered 10 employees and 11 customers with automatic pistols. They cleaned out all four of the cash drawers.

Speaking in English, they told employees to open the vault but when they refused they fled and drove in a car which had been parked nearby.

POLICE SPOT CAR

Two police constables spotted the car in the downtown area. When the three occupants saw the police they leaped out. A shot from a constable's revolver injured one, a second was arrested and the third escaped.

The loot, including the two automatics, was found in the car, along with two caps and dark glasses.

Police believe Thursday's holdup was the work of the same gang which robbed a Canadian Bank of Commerce Monday in the north-central area.

The holdup netted $18,787, bringing to $32,987 the total amount of money stolen from the St. Denis Street branch in three holdups since March 10.

'Ethel' Kills Three

MOBILE, Ala. (CP)—Hurricane Ethel, stripped of its power and no longer a hurricane, slapped at the Mississippi coastline Thursday. The storm was blamed for three deaths.

The weather bureau said Ethel's highest winds as the Gulf of Mexico storm moved inland were 65 miles an hour—10 lower than hurricane-class—but some gusts topped 80 miles an hour.

Ethel will continue to lose its bite as it moves across land, the weather bureau said. Rainfall will be heavy.

CHERBOURG, France

(UPI)—President Tito of Yugoslavia and his arch-enemy, Premier Mehmed Shehu of Albania, sailed yesterday aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth for the United Nations session in New York.

Tito, who travelled from Belgrade in a bullet-proof, armor-plated, seven-car, private train, was travelling in far more luxury than Shehu in two expensive suites. He was accorded a big sendoff by Yugoslavs at Cherbourg.

Shehu, a general who attained worldwide notoriety as the "Butcher of Albania" when the Communists were putting down opposition there, arrived at Cherbourg aboard the boat train without fanfare.

It was considered extremely unlikely they would meet aboard the liner. Albania has been an irritant to Tito since his break with the Cominform in 1948, although Albania then apparently was considered too insignificant by the Communists to be a member of the organization.

Shehu proclaimed his opposition to Tito earlier that year when Yugoslavia, according to the Albanian news agency, "treated Albania as a colony."

Shehu opposed Tito's demand to station two divisions in Albania and lost his job as member of the central committee of the party and as chief of staff of the army.

Tito, who has become closer to the West in recent years although still pursuing his own brand of Communism, will be allowed to travel freely in the United States.

Shehu, like Premier Nikita Khrushchev, Fidel Castro and Hungary Communist Party chief Janos Kadar, has been restricted to Manhattan Island.

The U.S. resolution would have the council "reaffirm its request to all states to refrain from any action which might tend to impede the restoration of law and order and in particular to refrain from sending personnel, supplies of equipment to be used for military purposes into the Congo other than through the United Nations."

Zorin, in introducing his resolution, renewed his attacks on UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and said the Western aim is "renewed subjugation of the Congo, this time under the UN flag."

The resolution called for the withdrawal of the entire UN command—but not the 16,000-man UN force itself. Zorin described the U.S. resolution as amounting to giving a mandate to Hammarskjöld to establish a UN trusteeship over the Congo.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Every man has some lost chances among his memories.

One time he found himself at the same table as a captain of industry, who said: "Sell everything and buy Consolidated Tinhorn."

Consolidated Tinhorn was selling at five cents. The man didn't believe it would go up. Anyway, he had no money.

For the rest of his life he regretted that he had not bought the stock at five cents. It went up to $5, and the week after that to $10.

Smart, Courageous

Or he remembers a girl he loved through the bush, or rode might have got to know better, a horse, or swam in the creek if he had been smart or courageous enough; or a horse he should have backed to win.

And then there is the old family home that Dad sold when he should have held it. I think there's a lost family home in almost every family.

In the country, every year built a power substation there, or a costly subdivision, or they struck oil. And the new man grew up, and wand-owners tripled their money.

Hates to Drive

Now, maybe, it's part of the town. The man hates to drive past the place, because it reminds him of childhood and lost chances.

Where the old house stood there is a service station. The creek now runs underground in a cement pipe.

Other chances may come stretching back through thousands of years, the man would never have been born, let alone the family home, at all.

Surgery Can Correct Boy's 'Funnel Chest'

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My three-year-old boy has a sunken place in his chest at the base of the breast bone. It is large enough to hold a lemon when he inhales deeply.

"I have taken him to three doctors but am not satisfied. One said the condition was probably inherited and of no great concern; another said he thought it could be corrected through exercise or some sort of brace but that this was out of his field; still another said it could be corrected only through surgery but that this was not necessary unless it started to affect his breathing. Could you explain this condition in terms I can understand? And is there a chance of his 'growing out of it'?"—Mrs. C. C.

This is a defect in the development of the breast bone. There is some question as to the cause—or causes. One persuasive explanation is that a fibrous band attached to the spine or diaphragm pulls the breast bone inward. I am not at all convinced that this is the whole story. Another more likely cause is the pressure from bent legs or arms of the fetus against the breast bone before birth.

In any event, this is called a "funnel chest" and there is an opposite condition, in which the breast bone protrudes too much, which is called "pigeon breast."

What to do about it? There are varying degrees of this "funnel" effect (just as there are of "pigeon breast") and mild ones require no attention at all. A more pronounced "funnel" effect may crowd the organs in the chest and hence require treatment. The condition may become worse as the child grows. On the other hand, while the youngster is not to be expected to "grow out of it," the condition may not be great enough to cause him any trouble, either now or later.

The answer, if it becomes apparent that something needs to be done, is to correct the defect by surgery, which these days is being performed with gratifying success.

However, there is no rush to do it at the age of three. It is usually done before puberty, so you should not be worried if the doctor suggests waiting for a few years. In the meantime, the condition should have no harmful effects on his breathing.

"Dr. Molner: My two-year-old son walks on one toe and puts his other foot flat on the floor. My friends say one leg is shorter than the other. Should I see our doctor about it?"—Mrs. L. E.

Absolutely, yes. It may not turn out that one leg is shorter, but there may be a defect in the foot, or hip, or possibly elsewhere, which can be corrected. I suppose it might be merely a habit, formed because of a sore place on the foot, but I rather doubt it.

Oddities of this nature should be corrected as early as possible—whether it's habit or whether there is some physical defect.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Do you think my 12-year-old daughter will eventually outgrow a fissure? I took her to a specialist and he said it was all right then, but every once in a while she is bothered and has a little blood in the stool.—Mrs. R. F.

A rectal fissure is a break in the membrane or skin. It tends to heal by itself—unless the basic cause of it persists, this usually being chronic constipation. Or unless infection sets in.

I abridged your letter, but it is apparent that your doctor has advised a diet that is designed to correct faults in her bowel habits. I'd most certainly follow his advice. You obviously have confidence in him, so do as he says. If he thought surgical correction was necessary or advisable, he would say so.

'Crazy' Gunman Captured

WAYNE CITY, Ill. (UPI)—A "plumb crazy" farmer shot two policemen and held off 30 others for 15 hours with volleys of rifle and shotgun fire until he was caught off guard yesterday.

He was captured by a state police sergeant who crept up close to the embattled farm home behind an army half-track and grappled with farmer Glen Redfern, 34. It took three more policemen to subdue Redfern, and the sergeant, Joe Biel, 35, was bitten in the process.

FATHER TAKEN IN Redfern's 79-year-old father, Joseph, was also taken into custody. The father said he took no part in the shooting and "I was scared to death for fear he would kill me."

"The boy's plumb crazy," the father said. Sheriff Robert Wilson said the battle began Tuesday night when he tried to serve Redfern with a summons for a mental hearing.

Little Army A Problem

QUEEN CITY has a 670-man army that nobody wants. The Metropolitan Auxiliary Police Force, organized three years ago at a cost of $100,000 just for uniforms, has become a problem.

The civil defence group which organized the force has suggested that Metro Toronto police accept responsibility for the service.

Chief problem is which group will foot the bill for the little army.

Mayor Sees Victoria's Future

Cultural Capital, Too

The future of Victoria lies in becoming the cultural centre of British Columbia, Mayor Percy Scourrah said last night.

"We will never be an industrial city such as Vancouver; we will never be a busy mining town," he said.

"But we will always be a city of residence, a city of government, a city of the navy, and, I hope, we will be the cultural centre of B.C."

Mayor Scourrah was speaking at the opening of three displays at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria—a $300,000 display of oils by Dutch and Flemish masters, a display of watercolor bird paintings by Victoria's Fenwick Lansdowne and a display of art and objects recently acquired by the gallery.

"If we don't have culture in our lives we lack a third dimension," Mr. Scourrah said. "It is people who are interested in cultural things who can raise the whole level of Canada."

"And it is centres such as this that will give them their inspiration."

YOUNG GIANT

"Canada has developed in many ways and has become a young giant, but we rather lag behind in cultural affairs. How important it is that we develop."

The three exhibitions will remain on display until Oct. 9. To accommodate the public the gallery will be specially opened from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. tonight and tomorrow night.

Old Masters Display Opened

Concurrently with the opening of the exhibitions, the gallery directors announced details of fall art classes for children and adults, to begin Sept. 26.

Drawing and painting classes for adults will be held mornings and evenings under the instruction of Herbert Siebner and Mrs. Desiree Schonland.

Children's classes will be arranged for two age groups—four to six year olds in the mornings and school age children in the afternoons. Instructors will be Mrs. Schonland, Mrs. Adele Fahey and Mrs. Rita Forrest.

VANCOUVER (CP)—An autopsy revealed Thursday that well-known private school teacher Andrew Fraser Lister died about five days ago of a heart attack.

A program of 33 film showings has been arranged by the women's committee of the gallery. Art films, cartoons and educational and entertainment films will be shown.

Registrations for the classes are open at the gallery.

Red Tape Ties Log Jam

Inaction Angers Ratepayers

By CHARLES THOMPSON
WESTHOLME—While a 500-foot-long log jam builds up and threatens this little valley, two government departments are tangled in red tape.

North Cowichan Reeve Donald Morton this week called it "buck passing."

The government will not make a move because it had not received a petition from the Westholme Ratepayers' Association, which asked council to act on its behalf.

STARTED IN MARCH

Council's attempt to get something done this summer, another of several, started on March 2 with a letter to Provincial Secretary Wesley Black that went unanswered two months until the municipality sent a second letter.

Mr. Black wrote back that an "investigation is almost complete" and that the municipality's letter was to be given to the department of highways.

After three and a half months of silence the municipality fired off a letter to the highway department asking for "advice as to how this is progressing."

NOTHING CAN BE DONE

D. R. McLeod, assistant deputy minister of highways, replied: "Our legal department has expressed an opinion that until such time as a petition has been presented by the owners of land in the area to be benefited—nothing can be done."

When the letter was read to council on Wednesday, Reeve Morton commented that it is a very "disappointing letter" and that the municipality is "back where it started."

A petition will be prepared for presentation to the government.

SERIOUS DANGER

Farmers in the Westholme valley, seven miles north of Duncan, believe there could be a serious loss of property.

In the council's letter March 2 to Mr. Black it is stressed that "the reeve recently asked the advice of (Highways Minister) Gagliardi about the removal of a log jam in the Chemainus River."

"This jam is approximately 60 feet high and 500 feet long. It is just out of North Cowichan, but if it broke the resultant floods could effect many houses and much property in the Westholme district.

Residents living at Westholme fear a flash flood with almost inevitable loss of life would occur if this Chemainus River log jam broke loose at high water. Logs are more than 60 feet high and 500 feet long. Government "red tape" has prevented shifting of log jam.—(Photo by Flett Studio.)

"A lengthy brief in connection with this was presented in March, 1957, to the department of highways by the Westholme Ratepayers' Association."

"The department of highways at that time replied to the association that as it did not directly affect roads or bridges it was not their responsibility."

(The Trans-Canada Highway, the old Island highway and a bridge over the new road are directly in its path.)

LONDON (UPI) — Mrs. Marie Clark, 59, yesterday was sentenced to six months in jail for trying to smuggle 455 wristwatches through customs by stuffing them in her corset.

Dirty, Old Wrapping Paper Accepted as Abstract Art

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Officials at London's Western Fair learned Thursday they have accepted a hoax for exhibition among the paintings hung in the art section.

The abstract work entitled "Fallout" was exposed as the piece of wrapping paper a London Free Press layout man used for six months to keep his drawing board clean.

Derry Davies, Free Press copy services chief, used the paper to sharpen his pencils, clean his pen, test spelling and work out arithmetical problems. Glue spilled on the paper, collected dirt and hardened.

When it became "too dirty" for further use Davies changed. Western Fair officials were it for a clean sheet. Someone not available Thursday night remarked that it looked like for comment.

an abstract painting and Davies, who hates modern art, was struck with an idea.

"I saw a chance to point up the difference between art and scrap paper," he said.

The sheet was neatly framed, signed by Free Press artist Lou Crockett and entered for the exhibition. An unofficial report says it was one of the first 11 paintings chosen.

Western Fair officials were it for a clean sheet. Someone not available Thursday night remarked that it looked like for comment.

Essays Solicited On Commonwealth

The Royal Commonwealth Society, Montreal branch, again this year offers the chance for school students across Canada to compete for prizes for the best essays on subjects relating to the British Commonwealth.

Last year more than 2,000 essays were submitted from Canadian students.

There are three age groups for the competition: under 14 years old, 14 to 16, and 16 to 19.

THE CIGARETTE THAT TASTES RIGHT ALL DAY

Mr. Green's Mission

THE government's selection of External Affairs Minister Howard Green to head Canada's delegation to the United Nations General Assembly next week will allay much of the disappointment felt in Mr. Diefenbaker's decision not to attend the session in person.

Few of the world's statesmen are held in such high international esteem as Mr. Green and none has evaluated so succinctly and forcibly the necessity of the immediate resumption of nuclear disarmament discussions between the great powers.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Green will not attend the meeting in the capacity of an interested onlooker only, but will play a leading part in the proceedings. He has demonstrated his sincerity and may possess the ability of minimizing the effect of any heavy-handed ploy by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

If the disarmament discussion—which is the major item on the agenda—deteriorates into a mud-slinging contest between the East and West, irreparable harm may be done which could easily develop into the first stages of a hot war.

It is possible that Mr. Green may be able to prevent this. He has already made Canada's position clear in calling upon all member nations of the UN to demand, on behalf of the people of the world, that the big powers put an end to their continuing threat of nuclear war.

It may fall upon his shoulders to reiterate this plea and bring to the attention of the two nuclear blocs that the United Nations is not the personal property of either the East or the West but is a forum for all and basically an instrument of peace.

The Wrong Idea

THE Christian Science Monitor urges that all news media should give Premier Khrushchev the silent treatment when he comes to New York, if not wholly then in great part. The idea is not to lend his propaganda a hand.

It is not a good idea in this instance. For one thing every or anything he says cannot be dismissed as propaganda. He is too important a figure and too significant for the world. Even his propaganda must be noted, else his motives cannot be guessed at. Since proselytism is a vital Soviet weapon it must be examined and its methods exposed.

The Monitor is rightly regarded as a fine and influential newspaper but it is always a selective one. Because of its religious connection it ignores certain types of news common to most other papers. All news is selective according to the degree of editorial choice and the space available, but some events are universal in their impact and instantly recognized as such by the press.

The visit of Mr. Khrushchev and his satellite group to the UN falls correctly into this category. His presence in New York will be crucial. He will make the most of his visit, being the master showman he is, but the line between showmanship and shrewd political strategy is hard to draw. Even his off-the-cuff references, his tantrums or his affectations, are important, for they indicate the man and the moods he harnesses to Soviet diplomacy.

He will automatically be the chief figure at this contrived "summit" of his invention, and as such he must be followed with eagle eyes as well as eagle ears. The Monitor's notion about suppression of such news suggests that it fears his influence on America, but that must be a mistaken idea. If it were valid then the cause of the free world would be precarious.

By declining personally to attend the UN session to which Premier Khrushchev is now headed the Western leaders are in effect boycotting him. The press cannot afford to follow suit. In their absence in fact it is all the more important that the news media does its duty by reporting this unusual Soviet venture in full.

Condemned Unheard

IF there is anything to be learned from the affair of Alexander Laak it is that even normally fair-minded Canadians are not above judging a man on hearsay in cases where allegations of war crimes are made.

There is an old story of a rural lay magistrate who, confronted by a plea of not guilty, angrily demanded of the prisoner: "If you are not guilty why were you arrested?"

Something of the same sort of thinking seems to have got into Canadian minds in connection with the Laak case. When the Estonian-born Canadian took his own life—after volunteering an admission of his identity, though not of the crime asserted against him—the far-too-general conclusion was that he must have been guilty. Yet history is full of instances of innocent persons taking to flight or committing suicide rather than face trial. Though the chance may seem remote to some people, Laak could have been one of them.

The guilt or innocence of this man now can never be proved. The point is that posthumously by many and while he still lived by others, Laak was condemned without trial. Whatever may have been alleged against him he had not been arraigned before any court and therefore had been convicted of nothing.

Uneasiness over this near approach to lynch law is heightened by the knowledge that Laak's accusers have a black record of persecution and perjury. Though not identified by name, he was accused by Russia through the Soviet news agency Tass of responsibility for 3,000 deaths in a Nazi prison camp in the Second World War. Laak was accused more by innuendo than by direct charge, but enough was said by the Russians to cause him to come forward with a public denial.

By taking his own life soon afterwards Laak may have helped to direct the finger towards himself. But under our system of justice a man—even a dead man—is innocent until proved guilty. Laak was tried by smear and, regrettable as it is to have to say it, found guilty in the minds of many Canadians. A Russian brand of McCarthyism has done its deadly work.

Interpreting the News

Nkrumah in Dual Role

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE respect in which Kwame Nkrumah is held by most professional diplomats is in marked contrast with the flamboyance and apparent irresponsibility of some of his performances in public.

More than any other African leader, the president of Ghana has become a skillful practitioner of what might be called the two-layer method of diplomacy, in which a statesman's public speeches are designed to mislead the audience as often as they enlighten it.

The pattern has been evident throughout the Congo crisis. Before the United Nations made its first move to halt the threat of civil war between Patrice Lumumba's central government and Moïse Tshombe's separatist regime in Katanga, Nkrumah threatened to send in troops to support Lumumba.

But, Ghanaian forces appeared under the UN banner and proved to be one of the best-disciplined units under its command.

In the weeks that followed, Nkrumah often supported Lumumba in public as a man fighting a heroic battle against the remnants of colonialism in Africa. At the same time, he was widely credited as a restraining influence on the Congolese premier in their private counsels.

Nkrumah's tactics paid a quick dividend when his threat to withdraw the Ghanaians from the UN force resulted in the speedy return of the Leopoldville radio station to Lumumba's control.

The promptness of the UN's response indicated that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld recognized the force of Nkrumah's argument as well as the threat behind it. As long as Lumumba can claim to be premier of the Congo, the UN is on shaky ground in denying him the use of his own means of communicating with his people.

The UN now has fallen back on an appeal to Congo's contending factions to avoid inflammatory broadcasts. It is a plea with which Nkrumah undoubtedly sympathizes and one that is likely to receive scant attention from Lumumba and his opponents.

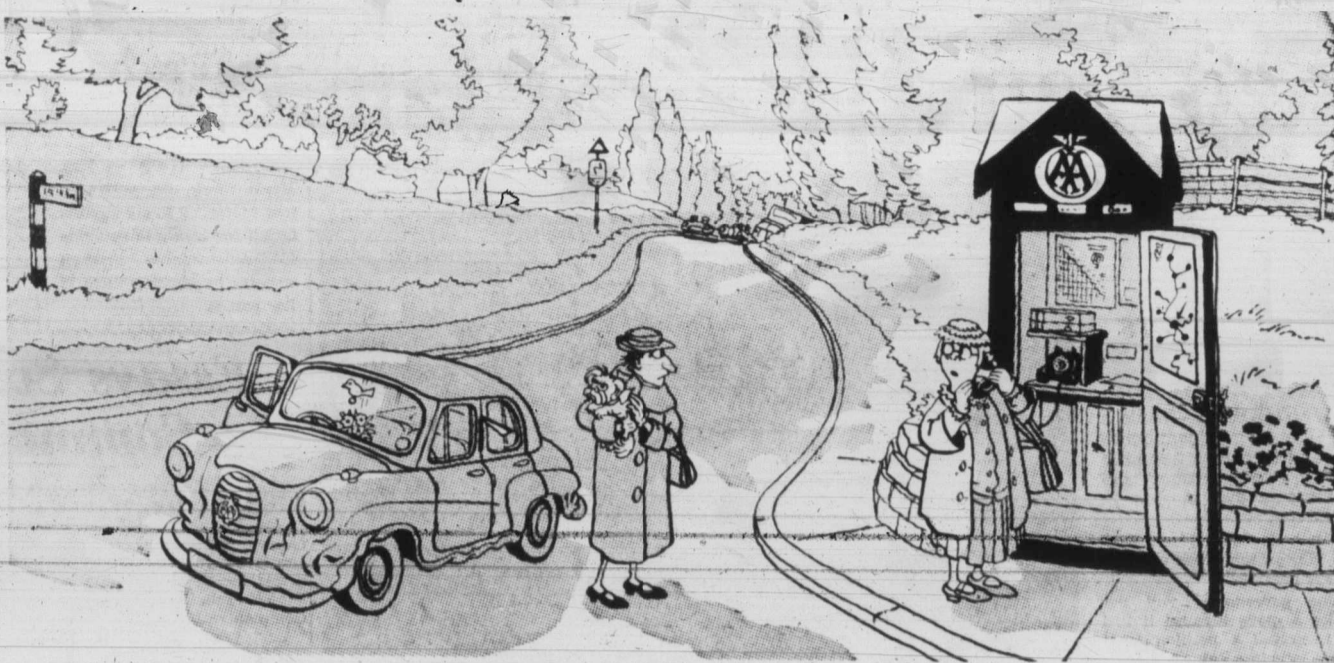

But Hammarskjöld's delicate mission in the Congo would be made no easier if he embarrassed Nkrumah by making him an unwilling accomplice in curbing the legitimate functions of a fellow African leader, however much they might be abused.

Nkrumah's hold on his own people depends on their continuing confidence in him as a liberator from white rule. His violent denunciations of Belgium's role in the Congo have been aimed at keeping that image alive.

Given freedom to manoeuvre, he can remain a valuable ally in keeping the peace among the Congolese and preventing the troubled republic from becoming a cold war battleground.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."
By TOM TAYLOR

THE other night on a movie screen there was a group of patrons round a gaming table in Las Vegas or Monte Carlo or some such place, and what a glum-looking lot they were. I suppose this was because the pleasure of sin was lost in the cost of it.

Actually, you see, the saints get off lightly.

This use of the term sin is of course rhetorical, and not in the sense that if one smokes, drinks, plays bingo or the horses, he—or she—is necessarily beyond the moral pale.

If the latter were so there would be few left to cast a stone, I fancy.

One can easily think of much more dreadful practices than either of these three vices, as they are called. I might even go so far as to say that when I puff a cigarette or on occasion buy a sweepstake ticket I am like Lin Yutang; I have no consciousness of sin and no feeling of being damned.

Moderation is the thing, I suppose, but the fashion is to lump smoking, drinking and gambling as iniquities, so let's regard devotees of these diversions as sinners and their opposites as saints.

The dice, if I may say so, is definitely loaded against the sinners. I doubt the saints quite appreciate this but they would quickly if all the sinners turned saints overnight.

Their pocketbooks would be so affected they'd maybe cry out in protest.

I have always suspected something of the sort but an accidental Kipling line confirms it. He said, albeit in a wholly different context, "The sin they do two by two they must pay for one by one."

Now it happens that an hour or so ago I discovered I had two cigarettes lit, and the enormity of my contribution to the national wealth almost stunned me. For about two-thirds of every cigarette I smoke fattens the national exchequer.

I certainly pay through the nose for the smoke I blow through my nose. Actually the ratio of the tax on tobacco is sheer extortion.

You may ask why don't I stop smoking then, and I would except I don't want the finance minister to have a fit.

Did you ever think of the money raised from the kind of sinners I am talking about? It's colossal. Hundreds of millions of dollars pour annually into provincial and federal treasuries because of this fondness for smoking, drinking or gambling.

Liquor, the pari-mutuels and tobacco underwrite a large part of government.

The money is put to good use and I'm not complaining; it helps to provide education, military defence, road and welfare work, and a host of other admirable things. But surely this means that when I puff a cigarette or sip a glass of wine I should feel virtuous, not sinful?

And of course if public funds were not raised substantially from these alleged vices they'd have to be raised by other taxes.

In fact if this became the perfect state the saints would get a shock. They would have to fork out a bigger share of tax-monies than they do at present.

Some honorable gentleman said "tut, tut" on Parliament Hill recently when he learned the extent of national spending on the aforementioned items, well over a billion dollars annually. But perhaps the "tut-tut" came as he realized the enormous chunk of this that is simply tax levy.

For no doubt there will be the same proportion of saints and sinners on Parliament Hill as elsewhere.

Effect on Canada's Export Trade

By DUART FARQUHARSON, from London

FOR months the government has been arguing that the decision whether or not to join the European Economic Community cannot be taken until a detailed study of the effects on the Commonwealth has been made.

Such a work has now been completed by an independent research organization. "The Commonwealth and Europe," published a few days ago by the Economist Intelligence Unit, examines in some 600 pages all the main commodities exported by the overseas Commonwealth countries to Britain and Europe.

Its conclusion: Not only can British participation in a new economic system—Europe be reconciled with the present system of Commonwealth trade, but economically both Britain and the Commonwealth will lose if Britain remains cut off from the six countries of the EEC.

The report was commissioned by Britain in Europe Ltd., a body supported by numerous industrial companies, banks and trade unions. It is too early to know whether its main conclusions will be accepted by the government's own economic advisors, though it is hard to imagine them coming to an opposite conclusion.

For Canadians the study provides the first detailed analysis of the likely effects of any practical solution to Europe's present economic division on Canadian trade. Its conclusion: "Canada's prospects for growth will not be significantly affected by European integration, whatever its form."

This may sound overly optimistic. But taken against the background of the likely effects of the present division between the European Six and Britain's European Free Trade Association the Intelligence Unit implies that Canada might do well to encourage a quick accommodation.

Unlike the other Commonwealth countries, the report argues, Canada will be much affected by the EFTA—the Outer Seven. "The growth of Canadian exports of timber to the U.K. may be arrested; the market for paper other than newsprint will be damaged; and free trade, by clipping the wings of the British paper industry, could check the expansion of U.K. imports of Canadian woodpulp."

Canada does not have as much to fear from the EEC. The report argues that hard wheat, which accounts for two-fifths of our sales to the Six, should ensure its hold on a market in which standards of eating are rising, because of its superior quality. But it warns that the European authorities could conceivably use their system of import levies and certificates to restrict its consumption.

Most Canadian raw materials exported to the Six should gain from the growing demand, for they will be largely unaffected by the introduction of the common tariff. Timber, woodpulp, copper, nickel and iron ore should do well, while, thanks to the quotas fixed for these metals, the tariff arrangements for lead and zinc are not likely to injure Canada's trade to any great extent. The duty on aluminum is a more serious matter since it may limit the growth of sales to an important potential market.

The only sector in which Canada's exports seem likely to be jeopardized, the report says, are manufactures such as chemicals, machinery, and transport equipment. But this is a small part of Canada's total exports to the Six, and one which is unlikely to expand in any case.

If the Six and Seven were to merge, the great bulk of Canada's trade would be safe if free entry into the U.K. were retained for wheat and wheat flour, barley, tobacco, newsprint, aluminum, lead and zinc, which together accounted for over half of exports to the U.K. in 1956. The Intelligence Unit believes that such arrangements could be operated within the framework of a single European system without doing violence to its principles.

There should be no problem with another quarter of Canadian exports to Europe because both the U.K. and the EEC have zero tariffs on them, or dispensations likely to amount to the same thing. The writers think it probable that special arrangements could be agreed upon which would allow continued free entry from Canada for much of the balance.

Some Canadian manufacturers would probably be hard hit by continental competition on equal terms in the British market, but the United States is the main market for them, anyway. If necessary Canada might consider using the substantial preferences it gives the U.K. in bargaining with the Six.

In order to secure a share in the expanding European market for foodstuffs and manufactures the writers suggest that Canada might even consider applying for formal association with the new European economic group. "The removal of protection for their industries would go against the current trend, but they should be well able to contemplate this, over an extended transitional period, as the poorer European countries such as Greece, Portugal and Turkey which are already doing so."

The report emphasizes an important advantage to the Commonwealth of a merger of the Six and Seven; Britain would take part in the policy-making of the whole group and could therefore throw its weight on the side of policies which would benefit Commonwealth trade. For Canada, liberal European policies are important, not so much in the bare arithmetic of growth as in the context of its desire to reduce dependence on the United States.

The report mentions that there has been some talk in Canada of a common Atlantic market.

"This would—if it should become acceptable to the U.S.A. and Europe, and if Canadian industry should by then have become strong enough—be the ideal solution for Canada. Meanwhile Canada's interests are to maintain its position as far as possible in the U.K. market, to see a strong Europe as a counterweight to U.S. dominance, and to encourage the trend toward liberal policies throughout the West."

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

I lately I bought a new hunting shirt of lively color so that my companions might distinguish between me and a porcupine, and when I got it home and tried it on I was surprised and fascinated to discover that its buttonholes were horizontal instead of the traditional vertical.

It was, I found, much easier and quicker to button with the buttonholes so designed. The fingers just naturally grasp the button from the side and clasp it into the aperture with the familiarity long established by coats.

Why are coat buttonholes horizontal and shirt buttons vertical? How long has the rule been in force, in what country did it originate, and who originated it? It has been in force at least half a century, since in all the hundreds of shirts that have come and gone in my life, the holes were always vertical.

Maybe the tradition dates back to the Fancy Dan days when the only men who wore shirts were gentlemen, and all shirts were ruffled and pleated. And a vertical buttonhole was easier to hide in the ruching. And like so many traditions in our world today, it has never been changed, though all the circumstances surrounding it have vanished forever.

Why This Excitement?

(From The Ottawa Journal)

THERE is vast excitement in some sections of the U.S. press over the news that Khrushchev will be a self-invited guest at UN. The need for such excitement isn't clear.

Khrushchev, we may assume reasonably, isn't coming to UN to help UN, nor to help the West, nor to repair his shattered friendship with Eisenhower. But apart from the captive audience he will have there, why should anyone assume that he can do more harm in New York than he can do in Moscow?

After all, Khrushchev didn't have to come to New York to arrange for the planes and pilots he is sending to the Congo, nor to get his agent in Cuba, Ernesto Guevara (head of the Cuban National Bank and the ac-knowledgeable power behind Castro) to take over U.S. plants, lock, stock and barrel and to recognize Communist China.

If Khrushchev at UN should by any chance say or offer anything worth exploring, then the West, its duty being to clutch at anything with a shred of hope, should explore. But if he comes there to demoralize and confuse—which seems all too likely—then the worst mistake the West could make would be to start trading insults with him, possibly falling into a trap he had laid for it.

As for the suggestion that Khrushchev will be in New York to influence the U.S. election, that is fantastic. Khrushchev may be a knave; he is hardly that much of a fool.

Letters to the Editor

Too Much Food

As one who has quite recently re-emigrated to Canada to spend those years that may remain in peaceful retirement in Victoria and the Gulf Islands, I wish to express my wholehearted agreement with the forthright editorial in The Daily Colonist of Sept. 13 entitled "Let's Keep It a Secret."

We arrived here with a perfectly open mind on the whole subject of the physical fitness of the young man and woman of this great country.

Perhaps our first observation was the prominence which is given in the advertising columns of the press to the sale of food.

This impression was shortly reinforced by what we saw both in hotels and restaurants; plates piled high with food of all descriptions, not only for the evening meal but also for the lunch-hour break.

Plenty of good food and plenty of exercise go well together, but when our next observation was the lack of evidence of games being played to any great extent in the various playgrounds throughout Greater Victoria, we were confirmed in our opinion that food as such plays too large a part in the social set-up of the community.

I write as one who is not a "new boy" but who came to this province to earn his living in the days before the First World War and as one who has since travelled the world over and seen the varying conditions under which people live and have their being, conditions of extreme poverty and extreme opulence.

I much hesitate to subscribe to the idea that Canada should not take part in future Olympics. She can and must do better; she has positively everything in her favor. What she now needs is the determination to reach that state of physical fitness which will enable her to compete with others, many of whom are not blessed with the same abundance of food, climatic conditions and more than ample breathing space.

A positive pre-requisite is that there must be leadership of a high standard and this endeavor to achieve something really worth while, must be sponsored financially and otherwise from the topmost level downwards.

Coyote Howls

Why is it that the present trend of American music becomes more and more like the howl of a coyote with a thorn in its flesh?

The urge to pitch radios out of the window is almost irresistible, were it not for the fact that it's not their fault, but that of their operators who feed them laxative pills to be digested by the general public.

Surely it is time to indulge in the enjoyment of a higher level of music than that which is dished out at present, isn't it?

We indeed commend Ambrose Reeve, Bishop of Johannesburg, for his courageous opposition to the South Africa government's enforcement of apartheid. There must be a right way, but it could not be done overnight. Does he know that way?

Police Testify In Betting Case

Police evidence only was heard yesterday in city police court as trial opened in the case of Douglas Winship, 709 Johnson, charged with using the premises for the recording of bets.

Balance of the case will be heard Monday.

Const. Keith Hollett told Magistrate William Ostler he went in plain clothes July 23 to the Blue Bell Confectionery, 709 Johnson. There, in a small office midway down the shop, he saw accused writing on a white racing sheet.

Sgt. John Mason and Const. Leslie Mottershead, in uniform, entered the shop soon after and, after a search, told accused he would be charged with recording bets.

In the same court three youths were fined $20 each for being minors in possession of liquor.

Robert Lorne Taylor, 19, of 1531 Jubilee, was found with 18 bottles of beer; Kenneth Steven Priske, 20, of 3091 Paisley, had one case of beer, and Paul Dennis Dawson, 20, HMCS Naden, had one bottle of gin and another of rye.

Found guilty of wandering in a park, under a section of the Criminal Code which prohibits such action for certain people, Lionel Cayer, 1559 Charlton, was sentenced to 30 days in jail by Deputy Magistrate J. A. Byers in Saanich court yesterday.

The offence took place this past summer at Gorge Park.

Joseph Lazlo, of 1014 Pendergast, and Lorne Walter Thickett, 19, of 2845 Bryn Mawr, were fined $20 each when they pleaded guilty in city court Wednesday to being minors in possession of liquor. Lazlo was found with a bottle of wine; Thickett with a case of ale.

TORONTO (CP) — Legacies totalling $100,000 from a $237,308 estate were left to charity by Mrs. Beatrice Mills in a will probated Wednesday.

Mrs. Mills, widow of John A. Mills, left $15,000 each to various charities. The Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross gets $10,000.

Focus on Writing Newspapers Told

VANCOUVER (CP) — Newspapers must concentrate on analysis and better writing and less on reporting if they are to meet the challenge of the 1960s, says Professor Alan Thomas of the University of British Columbia's Faculty of Education.

In a panel discussion Wednesday at the 41st annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association, Prof. Thomas said people today are more interested in reading interpretations of spot news.

"This means that newspapers must concentrate on a different kind of reporting. Apprenticeship on city hall or farm beats is not necessarily the best possible training for the writing papers will be called on to publish in the future."

"There is no evidence that newspaper reading has declined, and the role of the newspaper will be of enormous and continuing significance far beyond the 1960s."

"No one in this country will be able to continue doing his job effectively in the 1960s if he relies on the training he received when he was 20 or 30. We all need further education, and in the newspaper field there is certainly a crying need for specialized writers in technical subjects."

Wenden Leavens of Bolton, Ont., elected president of the 521-member association, told delegates that there is no room for featherbedding in the publishing industry.

"We must have up-to-date methods and there must be streamlining to meet today's costs."

Ike Maps Air Inspection Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower is expected to lay before the United Nations General Assembly next week a far-reaching plan calling for UN aerial inspection to guard against surprise attacks throughout the world.

The president also may propose a new "food for peace" program under which the United States and other countries will farm surplus crops to help feed the hungry masses of underdeveloped countries.

Government officials were working on a number of other ideas for presentation by the assembly next Thursday — the day before Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev speaks to the meeting.

Tito On Way

Beaming President Tito of Yugoslavia arrives in Paris on his way to New York and next week's United Nations meeting, which is drawing a large number of heads of state, including Russia's Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower.

Khrushchev, now en route by ship to New York, is carrying with him two alternative plans for worldwide disarmament, according to Soviet diplomats in London.

One calls for total nuclear and conventional disarmament in a stated period; the other would provide for phased partial disarmament. Both are revisions of previous Soviet proposals which were unacceptable to the West because of a lack of effective controls.

The Soviet diplomats said Khrushchev also would unveil some "entirely new proposals." They were believed to deal mostly with nuclear disarmament.

Eisenhower will spend the weekend at his Camp David retreat in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains to work on his UN address. White House press secretary James Hagerty said he would take no aides with him because he wanted to work alone.

The president's proposal that all nations open their air space to aerial inspection by the UN would emphasize the willingness of the United States and its allies to agree to sweeping arms limitations under adequate inspection and control.

Eisenhower had planned to lay the plan before Khrushchev last May at the Paris summit conference. When the conference collapsed, he said he would submit to the UN a proposal for the creation of UN surveillance to detect preparations for attack.

The president's "food for peace" recommendations would put new emphasis on a current program in which the United States is the major contributor.

Donations of U.S. dry milk, flour, cornmeal and rice are now being made to more than 90 countries.

Ticklish Task For Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower faces the ticklish task of deciding who, if any, of the national leaders coming to the United Nations meeting should get an invitation to stop by at the White House.

Prevailing U.S. foreign policy virtually ruled out any such overtures to Soviet Premier Khrushchev and his European bloc lieutenants or to Cuba's Fidel Castro. Both Khrushchev and Castro are under U.S. order not to stray from Manhattan Island during their UN visit.

But experts figured the United States might gain a diplomatic advantage by inviting some of the government heads down to Washington—provided the obstacles aren't too great.

The heads of new African delegations, too, might be favorably impressed by a welcome to the capital of the United States.

Construction by 1961

Action Promised On Columbia Job Before Winter

First positive step towards development of the Columbia River will come before next winter and construction on initial phases will probably start by mid-1961.

Final series of U.S.-Canada talks on how development of the international waterway should start will open in Ottawa later this month and is expected to produce an advanced progress report to the federal and provincial governments.

The report will embrace enough agreement between the two principals to pave the way for the first concrete development step—an application by B.C. Hydro for a water licence covering the controversial High Arrow Dam north of Castlegar.

The application will set the stage for a series of public hearings throughout the dam area at which B.C. Hydro is expected to bare for the first time its complete plans for harnessing the wasted B.C. waters of what is considered one of the finest undeveloped power rivers in the world.

LAST REQUIREMENT If B.C. Water Comptroller Arthur Paget approves the licence—in effect saying B.C. Hydro's plan represents the best sequence and pattern of development possible—the last requirement will have been met for an international treaty between Canada and the U.S.

At the forthcoming international meeting Canada is expected to propose a simultaneous start on High Arrow and Mica Creek dams.

This would overcome an objection of the U.S. that while High Arrow storage would be of some benefit to its downstream hydro plants, Mica Creek would be of far greater benefit.

10 YEARS TO BUILD Mica Creek will take perhaps 10 years to build, by which time High Arrow would have been storing water for five years if the two were started together.

Agreement on this phasing of the project would enable preparation of a draft copy of the ultimate treaty, although there are still other difficulties to straighten out.

In the streets were the bodies of 35 Baluba tribemen killed Wednesday in a bloody clash with Katanga police. Relatives later carried them away.

The local Balubas are strong opponents of the Katanga provincial regime and their opposition to a secessionist state helped start Wednesday's battle.

The Balubas are virtually in control of Manono. The only UN authority left is a contingent of 140 men from the Irish 33rd Battalion.

However, the Balubas are allowing the Irish to hold open a mile-long stretch of road between the airport and the guest house for any whites who want to leave.

The Irish are firmly established in a local school and at the airport. But everything else is idle. The mines have stopped production, there is no water supply and no civic administration.

The tribal warriors burned down the town hall, the house of the civil administrator, the punishment block of the local prison, police barracks, policemen's houses, and the main garage in town.

In addition to the 35 dead, the Balubas had 14 wounded. Two Negro policemen were reported killed.

"Trouble started when about 800 Balubas came into town from the surrounding country. They got together with the local witch doctor — Nkubu the Elephant — who is reputed to have magic powers.

What happened was that the Katanga army dropped grenades on the African quarter in reprisal for the killing of a Belgian captain in an ambush here a couple of days ago.

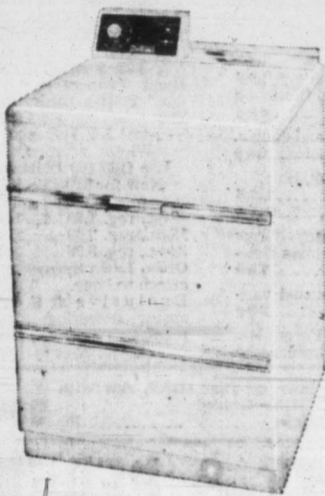

The grenades dropped in soft muddy ground and failed to go off. As a result he (Nkubu) was regarded as immortal. He then prepared mixtures and sold these to Balubas. He appointed them with it and told them: 'White men's bullets cannot harm you!'

"They seemed to believe him. Hundreds of them marched on the town hall and other administrative and police buildings nearby, where police formed up to fight.

"The Balubas walked into a hail of fire, seeming to believe they could not be hurt. They fell like tenpins and then the battle began in earnest."

Taking Over Rule of Nation

Congo Army Strongman Orders Reds Out in Hurry

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Col. Joseph Mobutu, coming forward as an army strongman, yesterday gave the Russians and other Communists 48 hours to get out of the Congo after proclaiming that the armed forces had taken control of the chaotic nation.

The 30-year-old career soldier, named army chief of staff Wednesday by President Joseph Kasavubu, said the embassies of Russia and her satellites were being shut down and the Communist diplomats expelled.

Mobutu told a press conference the army was taking over rule in the strife-torn young African republic until some solution is reached in the deadlocked power struggle between Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Mobutu called for full support from the United Nations in the sudden move and appealed for co-operation of Congolese and foreign technicians.

into the mess after Lumumba, battling Ghanaian soldiers who tried to stop them. Finally the Congolese were pushed out. No shots were fired and no one was reported severely injured.

"It was a close shave," said a British officer of the Ghanaian force. "The men were very, very angry. It looked as though nothing would stop them."

After the Ghanaian troops had forced the Congolese out of the mess, the Congolese milled around outside. The Ghanaians, aided by a few Congolese police, threw a cordon around the mess hall.

SEVEN HOURS — For seven hours Lumumba and his general were besieged in the building. The Congolese pointed three machine-guns at the mess door but let Ghanaian officers move in and out freely.

Then Mobutu sent his police to the rescue. Blue-helmeted Ghanaian riflemen escorted Lumumba to the entrance of Camp Leopold soon after night fell.

Screaming soldiers, many in steel helmets with camouflage nets, broke the police cordon as Lumumba was pushed into an army truck.

SHIRT TORN — Lumumba's white sports shirt was torn.

The police formed a barrier of bayoneted rifles. The truck finally whisked Lumumba away to his residence, as Congolese soldiers shook their fists and roared for his death.

Gen. Lumumba chose not to go in the truck. He left by the mess hall's back door. He was not pursued.

But hundreds of aroused soldiers still milled inside the camp and no one would guess what turn events would take.

UN May Set Up Plan To Put Congo On Feet

GENEVA (AP) — The United Nations European headquarters said Thursday it is thinking in terms of a UN program, tremendous in scope, that would run to 1970 or 1975 to put the Congo on its feet.

A basic feature of the program to help the new, troubled republic would place UN advisers and experts under the direct orders of Congolese authorities.

This would give the Congo an administrative structure similar to that of Ghana, where most of the former colonial civil servants from Britain have stayed on to carry out the orders of African superiors.

Masters Show Credit to Few With Foresight

By INA D. D. UTHOFF

Before the last war there was a time when many of the finest British-owned paintings were being bought for collections all over the world and were being taken out of Britain.

This was such a serious situation that artists and art experts, wealthy and influential people, combined to form a scheme to establish a national trust collection, the idea being that money would be raised in Britain to buy important and available works and keep them in the country.

FINE COLLECTION

Money was raised from membership dues and other sources and in time, a really fine collection of paintings was assembled, and it is from this collection that our present exhibition of "Dutch and Flemish Painters" has been drawn.

The showing here will be the first in Canada. It was initiated by our Art Gallery and organized by the National Gallery of Canada. The paint-

Bonner Renews Appeal

Trade Minister Robert Bonner yesterday renewed his appeal of last June for B.C. industry to consider new expansion programs as a means to increase employment.

He said it was impossible to catalogue any concrete results of his initial appeal to industry, but he said he believed it has had some effect in spite of a continuing "recessive trend across the country."

He pointed to a study undertaken by the government late last year which predicted a new round of pulp industry expansion in the province and said he has no reason to doubt that the prediction will come true.

DELIGHTFUL VIEW

The delightful back view of a girl with a curious hairdo, played up the back of the head and ending in an unruly curl on top may have been the young wife Helena Fourment whom he married four years after the death of his first wife Isabella Brant.

Helena was barely 16 and her fresh beauty glowed in this painting. But Isabella was also a luscious blonde. Rubens loved to paint that splendid type of Nordic woman and both his wives provided him with the models he needed to express the fullness and richness of life.

GIANT OF PERIOD

Another giant of this period was Anthony Van Dyck, also of the Flemish School, who was at one time a protégé of Rubens, and who later became court painter to James I of England. It is interesting to compare the difference in style of these two painters.

A canvas that is likely to prove very popular is Caesar Everdingen's "Child" which is one of the gems of this collection.

LARGE EXHIBITION

It is a very large exhibition, filling the two main galleries of the Centennial Wing with paintings dating from 1593 to 1749 and most of it will have to be dealt with at a later date.

But... just a few words about what our local artists are showing at "The Point."

Elsa Mayhew showed some extremely interesting metal sculpture. She is a most enthusiastic worker and appears to have found the particular form of expression that is most congenial to her.

Michael Morris brought back several fine canvases from his summer course in painting at the University of British Columbia.

Cyrus Eaton Sees Big Win for Nikita

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cyrus Eaton, Canadian-born Cleveland industrialist and financier, predicted Thursday night that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will win "a tremendous victory" on two proposals to the United Nations. One proposal Khrushchev will place before the U.N. Eaton predicted, will call for admission of Red China to the U.N. The second basic proposal on which the Soviet leader will win, Eaton said, will call for complete, universal and immediate disarmament. "Winning on these two issues will be a tremendous victory for Khrushchev and a sad defeat for the United States," said Eaton.

Huge Crowds Enthusiastic Over Kennedy

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI)—John F. Kennedy received a jammed, enthusiastic welcome in town after town in New Jersey yesterday as he stumped by motorcade and plane into Pennsylvania with his charge that the Republicans are trying to sugar-coat America's declining influence in world affairs.

The enthusiasm and size of his crowds seemed to build as he drove a winding route over north central New Jersey. In Paterson, howling young Kennedy fans nearly pulled him from the car as they grasped both of his outstretched arms. Paterson Police Chief Daniel Murphy estimated the crowd in the City Hall Square at between 15,000 and 20,000 persons.

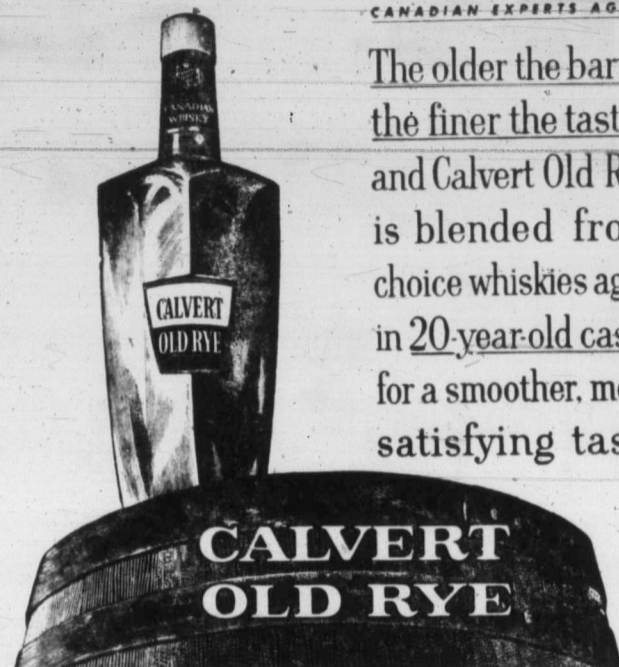

Bluebird 'Perfect' In Warm-Up Runs

BONNEVILLE, Utah (AP)—Donald Campbell breezed over western Utah's salt flats at 165 and 250 miles an hour Thursday and later described the operation of his 4,250-horsepower Bluebird II as perfect.

Campbell announced he would try to pass 300 m.p.h. at dawn today. And if he did, it would be on the 25th anniversary of the day his father, Sir Malcolm Campbell, became the first man to exceed 300 m.p.h.

St. Luke's Play Opens Season

By BERT BINNY
Led by St. Luke's Players, audiences started the new theatrical season at St. Luke's Parish Hall last night.

Pertwee's "Night Was Our Friend" is a well-constructed and well-written play with an interesting if still debatable thesis. The events, though exceptional in themselves, have logical sequence and outcomes.

All the activities centre around the character of Sally Raynor, played last night by Belle Davies. Sally was excellently done.

MERCURIAL CHARACTER
John Dyeon was Sally's husband, Martin, certainly a psychopath and probably a schizophrenic. Mr. Dyeon portrayed this difficult, mercurial character with plenty of impact. He was particularly impressive in that he suggested his second personality while playing the first.

Bernie Wachter made a good job of the somewhat thankless part of Dr. John Harper as did Blossom Johnston with that of Kate.

DEVASTATINGLY RIGHT
The remaining part of Dr. Glanville, played by Chuck Swannell, did not achieve its intended significance. Dr. Glanville sees everything in a devastatingly right perspective even though through a permanent haze of alcohol.

Directed by Harry Lukey, "Night Was Our Friend" is a high standard production and has been evaluated as such. It continues this evening and tomorrow with curtain time 8:15 at St. Luke's parish hall.

$300 in Well-Wishes

More than $300 has been taken from the wishing well at the Malahat Chalet this summer for the patient aid program of the Victoria chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada.

MP Turns American For Red-Faced Moment

VANCOUVER (CP)—MP John Taylor got his nationalities mixed in an embarrassing moment before the Board of Broadcast Governors Thursday.

The board is hearing complaints about a Victoria television station's interference with Vancouver reception of United States television. (See Page 35.)

Mr. Taylor, Conservative MP for Vancouver Burrard, said Vancouver has relied on the U.S. for broadcast entertainment since the early days of radio.

"I don't think we're any less American because of it," he said.

Then he paused to reflect on what he had said.

"Oh," said Mr. Taylor, "I mean I don't think we're any less Canadian because of it."

Reds Plan 'Blitzkrieg'

BONN, Germany (UPI)—He said the documents West German government spokesman Werner Krueger said yesterday Communist East Germany has converted its defensive army into an offensive unit and plans a "blitzkrieg" against West Germany.

Krueger distributed photographic copies of East German documents as evidence at a press conference and said they were brought to West Germany in mid-August by Guenter Malikovsky, a political officer who defected from the East German army.

Shortcut Deal Draws 100 For Licences

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 100 dental technicians in B.C. have applied for a special licence which would allow them to bypass the dentist and deal directly with the public.

The last session of the legislature agreed to permit some dental technicians to make dentures without the aid of a dentist. As those who receive the special licences retire from business over the years, they won't be replaced.

The announcement came at the height of new tension over Communist restrictions against West Berlin travel and as United States, British and French ambassadors were meeting here with acting chancellor Ludwig Erhard to plan further economic reprisals against East Germany.

Krueger said the Bonn government has known for some time of the East German plans but that the documents brought by Malikovsky when he fled with his wife and two children were the "first public proof." He called the documents "alarming."

Flying through stepped up Communist air patrols, West German President Heinrich Lübke came to isolated Berlin Thursday with a plea for calm.

His trip, planned months ago, was treated by Communist East Germany as a challenge. They said he is visiting the city as a "disturber of the peace and a law breaker."

TORONTO (CP)—Lawyer Joseph Sedgwick proposed Thursday that divorce laws be changed so that the guilty party would simply admit adultery and have the court accept the plea rather than force the person to prove guilt.

Mr. Sedgwick, in a letter to a newspaper, said that only in divorce cases does the plaintiff have to go on trial to prove what no one has disputed.

Cubans Launch Major Campaign To Clean Up Rebels

HAVANA (UPI)—Army troops were reported engaged yesterday in a major field campaign to wipe out nests of armed rebel resistance scattered throughout central Cuba.

First official confirmation of fighting in the Sierra de Escambray region of Las Villas province came in an announcement of the death of a my lieutenant Obdulio Morales Torres in Santa Clara.

The government-controlled press said he died "from gunshot wounds suffered in military operations being carried out in the Sierra de Escambray." Santa Clara is the capital city of the province.

An estimated 2,000 troops were reported concentrated at La Campana in the Sierra under the direction or supervision of two of Premier Fidel Castro's top guerrilla warfare experts.

They were Raul Castro, brother of the premier who is armed forces minister, and the Argentine-born Ernesto (Che) Guevara.

Reports in Havana indicated that up to 1,000 armed rebels were involved in the mountain fighting. They were depicted as individuals either opposed to the Cuban ties with international Communism or opposed to government policies.

Schools Refuse Students

VERNON (CP)—Students are being turned away from Vernon junior and senior high schools because some classes are already crammed beyond maximum capacity.

A meeting of the school district has decided no more students will be accepted before Sept. 22.

A school referendum, slated to go before ratepayers last December, was not passed by the department of education. A new referendum for a new Vernon secondary school and an elementary school is expected to be placed this year.

Senior high principal Larry Marrs said he has already denied some students their senior science class. The senior matric class of 46 is at an all-time high, he said.

The deputy sheriffs also announced plans to seize all New York property of the airlines, operated by the Cuban government.

The immediate effect was to halt the scheduled return of the airliner to Havana later Thursday with 66 passengers.

Garden Notes

Big Year for Freaks

By M. A. CHESNUT, FRHS

Strange things have been happening to our garden plants this summer, and almost every mail brings me reports of abnormal growth—conditions known to the plant scientists as proliferation and fasciation. Proliferation is where one flower grows out of another, fasciation where the flower stem becomes abnormally widened and flattened, obviously three or four stems grown together into one.

One reader reported a two-stem rose, with one flower growing right out of the middle of another. I know of three similar cases in dahlias, and at least half a dozen instances of fasciated dahlia stems, and only yesterday I was told of a snapdragon spike in which each floret had another growing inside the first.

A gladiolus fan writes about a normally clear pink variety which bloomed this year with each floret half white and half pink, while an other correspondent reports a cucumber vine on which half the fruits are their normal dark green color and half are pure white.

The odd freak of nature turns up every year, of course, along with occasional newspaper stories of Siamese twins and two-headed calves, but never before have I known these plant abnormalities to occur in such numbers.

The cause of proliferation and fasciation in plants is unknown, but the thing that bothers me is that this is the kind of phenomena you might expect in plants which had been exposed to X-ray or atomic radiation. There are other possible causes—virus infection, for instance, or contamination from weedkiller fumes—but I can't help worrying over the possibility that some unknown fallout factor is affecting our garden plants.

It is too early as yet to plant roses, shrubs or trees of any kind, but it is certainly not too early to get in some bulbs. It isn't good for bulbs to be out of the ground too long, and with daffodils, crocuses and snowdrops, the sooner they are growing again, the better.

It is best to wait until mid-October to put in the tulips and hyacinths, and late October for the bulbous iris, for if they start into growth too early, there is always the possibility that they might poke their noses out too soon and get them nipped by frost.

Even so, it is a good idea to buy your bulbs now. There is a better selection to choose from, for one thing, and if you store them in a cool, dry place, they will be in better shape at planting time than those which have spent a month on the counters and in the bins of the garden shops. Ideal storage temperature is around 40 degrees, but even an ordinary basement or fruit cupboard is better than keeping them at room temperature.

This is the big day at Crystal Garden, and right now, as you read this, the judges are at work selecting the finest exhibits in the Victoria Horticultural Society's big Fall Show. Doors will be open to the public from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. today and from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. tomorrow.

Especially featured will be chrysanthemums, Michaelmas daisies, roses, dahlias, vegetables and fruit, and a very large portion of the show has been taken over by the floral arrangement classes. Admission is 50 cents, and I would like to suggest once again that you take along a notebook and pencil to record the names of varieties you would like to grow in your own garden.

The Viewing World

Firestone Takes the Plunge

The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company is one of the great sponsors of broadcasting, one of the earliest—"The Firestone Hour" started on NBC Dec. 3, 1928—and one of the most frustrated. "The Firestone Hour," a quality program of classical and semi-classical music, was tossed off NBC after 28 years because of its low ratings, and went to ABC where it was sacrificed to high-rated junk programs in 1958.

Firestone is coming back with a quality show of a rather different kind. The last couple of years, Firestone has been experimenting boldly with the sponsorship of new shows of a strikingly fresh and original kind called "Eyewitness to History," a CBS news package. "Eyewitness" deals with breaking news as it happens. That is, when Khrushchev visits the U.S. or when Eisenhower visits India, they have the show on the air that night or maybe within the next week.

This is a tremendously important advance in news-casting for television and Firestone has boldly decided to sponsor 52 weeks of "Eyewitness" at a cost of more than $4,000,000. CBS has given it the old "Person to Person" slot.

The decision to sponsor "Eyewitness" for 52 weeks is an unusual one for any kind of show. From the point of view of the public, this is a healthier trend—if trend it is—of the summer.

What kind of show will it be?

"A weekly show isn't going to be the same thing as a pre-empt which can be matched with a known news event," Les Midgley, executive producer, admitted. "In some ways it's going to be harder. But just as you boys got out a paper every day and 'Life' goes to bat every week hitting the pictorial value hard, 'Eyewitness' will be pointed at a big story of the week. It will be covered right up to air time with everything we've got—live remotes, tapes, films, radio, graphics. Our aim is to present news in action centered wherever possible around some major event that lends itself to pictorial treatment by the TV cameras."

"Somebody asked me the other day how television news is going to move forward. It depends on three things: the availability of air time to cover events that deserve covering, the technical advances such as tape that are constantly enlarging our horizons, and our judgment, literacy, and skill. We have a fine air time. The technical advances of last year were highly profitable. Our staff is first-class."

"One last word. It's our view that history is a broad, broad view. I'd love to have Khrushchev laughing and ranting again and some international conferring and rioting. But I also hope to see some other history in other kinds of news—science, sports, entertainment, even fun and fashion. After all, Beverly Aadland is a pretty historical character, too."

Hollywood Today

By Sheila Graham

Duchess May Tell All

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Producers here are bidding for the memoirs of the Duchess of Argyll—and, to date, she has not written them! If she tells all, her book could be the thriller of the year. The divorce of the Duke and Duchess will soon be in the London courts, with no holds barred on either side.

Marlon Brando has been invited to pose for his wax image at the famed Madame Tussauds in London. He'll do it next summer—"when I have time."

Vic Damone says he has given up all hope of reconciliation with Pier Angeli and will concentrate on his singing career. Because of his religion, Vic does not expect to marry again.

Greer Garson has her sights set on the new Christopher Isherwood version of "Hedda Gabler," for Broadway. . . and Peter Glenville states there will be 50 speaking parts in "Becket," in addition to the star roles of Sir Laurence Olivier and Anthony Quinn. It will open cold in New York, with no out-of-town tryout.

Louis Jourdan finally hit the $250,000 mark for one picture—in dollars, francs and lire—for starring with English actress Belinda Lee, who is trilingual—English, French and Italian—in "Virgins of Rome," with just-as-pretty Sylvia Sims in the cast.

Twenty years ago, Joan Crawford built a private theatre in her home, complete with three dressing rooms and showers, plus a lounge. Today Donald O'Connor, who bought the place from Joan, is rehearsing there with Mitzi Gaynor and Andre Previn. "To build this today, it would cost $75,000," says Donald. "It has perfect acoustics and equipment." I wonder if Joan ever misses the house, in which she put so much of herself.

When Trevor Howard finished his role of Captain Bligh in "Mutiny on the Bounty," he will co-star with Curt Jurgens in "Cross of Iron," a story of German prisoners of war in England during the Second World War. Curt is selling two of his five houses in Europe. Wife Simone found it too much of a housekeeping chore to keep tabs on them all. At one time Curt, who has a passion for buying houses, was thinking of putting a down payment on the villa Piedmonte in B. Air—the white villa with a 10-foot wall—where Prince Rainier did some wooing of Grace Kelly.

Yves Montand, who likes to write letters to his leading ladies, wrote a different one to Lee Remick after they completed their "Sanctuary" film—briefly stating, "I'm proud and happy to have worked with you." Such gallantry doesn't happen too often in Hollywood. No wonder Yves is so successful with the fair sex.

Bing Crosby admitted to a career problem in London. He told them he was "too old to get the girl and too young to play grandfathers." Bing is a grandfather, and listening and smiling alongside him was his 26-year-old wife Kathy.

Illiteracy Crushing Stigma

By JACK HUTTON

(Second of a series)

MOSCOW (UPI)—Last Saturday night outside an apartment block, I struck a match and showed the address of an American correspondent to an old Russian woman.

She mumbled, waved one hand helplessly, and bent her shawled head. It did not require my hazy grasp of Russian to get her embarrassing message. She could not read.

And in the Soviet Union today that is a crushing stigma. It is, in fact, almost unique for anyone under 50 years of age in the 15 Republic states. No visitor, I found, can understand Russian education without some idea of the 50-year determined campaign waged here to stamp out illiteracy.

It would be strange indeed, if the present Russian claims that the old Czarist system decreed did little for mass schooling were as true as they insist it is.

Every Russian Worker Busy Improving Himself

But no visitor or student of Russian history can deny the "push" which began after 1917. Special schools for the illiterate and semi-illiterate were set up and provided with books, supplies and stationery at state expense. Workers attended them two hours a day with full pay.

Education invaded the ranks of the Red Army as men in every company, squadron, battery or detachment were ordered to carry out the new that the old Czarist system decreed.

Education invaded the ranks of the Red Army as men in every company, squadron, battery or detachment were ordered to carry out the new that the old Czarist system decreed.

paper article and answer questions on content.

By 1938, the Second World War, Russia could boast that 94 per cent of its city population below the age of 50 could read. The percentage was about 83 in the countryside.

What is the story now? The truth brings a blush of envy to the cheeks of our adult education enthusiasts, many of whom are at the world conference of adult education in Montreal.

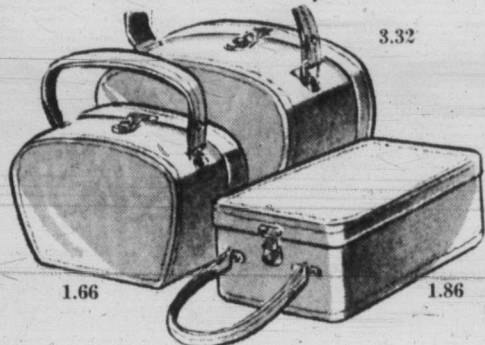

One official estimated for me—and figures backed him up—that almost every worker in Russia is taking some form of training to improve himself. "Times have changed," he remarked with wry understatement. "It is very difficult to be illiterate in Russia today."

Standing Room Only in Campus Rite

There was standing room only in Victoria University's new auditorium-gymnasium on the Gordon Head campus yesterday when some 700 serious-faced students attended the

On Target for 1960

University Fund Near $2,000,000

Victoria University building fund is within $50,000 of the $2,000,000 target set for this year, R. B. Wilson, chairman of the University Development Board, announced last night.

Recent donations, totalling some $34,000 have raised the total to $1,950,000.

"These gifts have helped make possible the construction of the new faculty and classroom block and the planning for the development of a science building and library," Mr. Wilson said.

Initial plans for the science building were inspected by members of the development board last night, by special invitation from deputy works minister Arnold Webb.

The plans are being drawn by the department of public works. Target for completion of the block is spring, 1962.

"Construction of the new faculty and classroom block is proceeding on schedule toward the completion date of Dec. 31," Mr. Wilson said.

VERY PLEASED
"We are very pleased with the permanent-type structure which is being built. The building will contain 11 classrooms suitable for the combined seating of 490 students and 27 faculty offices to be used for student counselling and administrative work."

The block is being built to allow for construction of two additional stories for classrooms and offices.

AVAILABLE SPACE
"Between now and Dec. 31 classes will meet in all available space on the campus with many classes being conducted between 4.30 p.m. and 5.30 p.m."

Shortage of accommodation at the university was highlighted yesterday when the traditional opening ceremony had to be held in the new gymnasium-auditorium on the Gordon Head campus.

STANDING ROOM
"There was standing room only for some of the 700 students who crowded into the hall—a converted army drill hall."

The university's status this year as a degree-granting institution was emphasized by Judge J. B. Clearhue, president of Victoria University Council, who told students:

"This is your alma mater."

"We have the best dance floor in Greater Victoria," he said, referring to the gleaming, newly varnished floor of the hall, "and also the best gymnasium."

"But buildings, dance floors and money don't make a university. We must have two other things—a good faculty and a good student body."

FINEST FACULTY
"Without hesitation I can say we have the finest faculty obtainable by a university of our size and we're proud of it."

"But we also need good students and therefore, on what you do depends the future of our university."

OUTSTANDING YEAR
Acting principal Robert Wallace described 1960 as an outstanding year in the history of the college.

"It is our privilege, both faculty and students, to be associated with the college in this momentous year," he said.

New Truck On Display

It was a firemen's holiday last night for members of the city, Saanich and Colwood fire departments who dropped in to see Oak Bay's new fire truck in operation.

Fire chief William Pearson estimated between 500 and 600 persons attended the firehall open house where the new truck's ability to snuff out an oil fire with fog nozzles was demonstrated to the public.

Gear carried on the department's rescue truck donated by Oak Bay Kiwanis Club was on display and Chief Pearson said that at least 50 of the truck's 70 runs to date could have been "life or death cases."

A number of youngsters were seen trying to climb the brass pole.

Area Seen as Home For Class 'B' Fair

Colwood race track and fairgrounds may become the scene of a major reconstruction project and could play host to Vancouver Island's newest venture into harness racing next spring, a spokesman for the B.C. Agricultural Association said last night.

Geoffrey Edgelow, association president, said the federal and provincial governments will be asked for building grants with which to rejuvenate the Colwood plant.

CLASS B FAIR

And if the grants come through the association will seek department of agriculture approval to hold a Class B fair on the grounds in the fall of 1961.

If the plans bear fruit, the race track renovation could bring about Vancouver Island's second venture into harness racing. The increasingly popular sport was staged in Saanich a few years ago, but with marginal success.

NEW DRAWING CARD

Aim of the agricultural association is to make the Colwood grounds suitable for a Class A fair in the future and create a new major drawing card for visitors on lower Vancouver Island.

Mr. Edgelow said that if the building program is sufficiently advanced by next spring the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce may stage its annual fair there at that time. The Colwood grounds offer

Rescue Plan Abandoned

Rescue plans were halted when a boat, showing a burning flare and believed to be aground on a reef between Discovery and Trial Islands, finally turned up safe and sound last night at Oak Bay Boathouse.

The unidentified occupants told police they had picked up a burning air force flare, carried it on board for awhile then doused it in the sea because it became "too dangerous."

a major recreational potential to the Greater Victoria and lower Island area.

The association president called upon residents of Greater Victoria to gauge the potential at first hand by attending a family picnic day there on Sunday.

Most events will get under way at 1.30 p.m. and refreshments will be on sale for those who don't bring their own.

Plane Schedules Should Return To Normal Today

Air transport schedules between Vancouver Island and the B.C. mainland were expected to return to normal today after cancellation of nine TCA flights due to fog yesterday.

Arena Plan Discussion Set Tonight

Three proposed plans for Esquimalt's $300,000 ice and sports arena will be discussed by a special meeting of council tonight.

The sets of plans have been submitted by two Victoria contracting firms and one Nanaimo firm.

A consulting engineer will explain the plans to members of council, pointing out good and bad points.

The matter may be raised publicly during Monday night's regular council meeting.

"I hope we can make a decision on this soon," Reeve A. C. Wurtele said last night.

Charles Cameron was last night installed as president of the Victoria branch of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society for the 1960-61 year.

Others installed were Blanche Grant, immediate past president; Kay Inglis, first vice-president; Jack Diron, second vice-president; Georgina MacKay, secretary; Mrs. Daisie Featherstone, financial secretary; Mrs. Maude Blades, treasurer; George Gunniss, warden; Stuart Kennedy, guardian; Bliss Dysart, outer guard; Ian Duncan, piper; Cameron Purse, pianist; Mrs. John Hadden, chaplain; James Henderson, historian.

Members of 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron RCAF (Auxiliary) and No. 80 (Kinsmen) Squadron Royal Canadian Air Cadets will attend 11 a.m. memorial services Sunday commemorating the Battle of Britain.

Following services at First United Church on the corner of Balmoral and Quadra, and at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral, the units led by a band will parade to the cenotaph where a wreath will be placed in memory of members of Commonwealth air forces who fell during the battle.

Two people injured Wednesday evening in a collision at Cook and Fort were still under treatment in Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday.

Mrs. Gertrude B. Buckler, 67, 1015 Collinson, is in "fair" condition with a head injury. John E. Boyle, 27, of 2375 Rosario, suffered possible broken ribs and internal injuries. His condition was good.

Mrs. Buckler was driver of one of the cars involved; Boyle was passenger in the other car, driven by Ernest F. Marshall, 60, of 958 Victoria.

More than 400 party delegates are expected to attend the annual Social Credit League convention in Vancouver Nov. 4 and 5.

Convention chairman Noel Murphy, president of the league, said yesterday Premier W. A. C. Bennett will be the principal speaker and that major business of the convention will be the election of three new vice-presidents.

Photo Espionage

Nikita Curbed As Spy Check

Americans have restricted Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to Manhattan because they know that Russian aircraft accompanying him elsewhere would be equipped with photographic espionage equipment, an ex-RAF officer suggested here last night.

Squad Ldr. Jack Holmes told Oak Bay Kiwanis Club that a fighter pilot under his command once took an aerial photograph of a Russian TU-104 aircraft which "had at least 16 camera periscopes open" during a "diplomatic mission" from the continent to England.

He implied that Americans are aware of such tactics and that they restricted Khrushchev's movements in retaliation for Russia's recent spy trial of American U-2 pilot Francis G. Powers rather than out of concern for Khrushchev's safety.

"The Russians do it (spy flights) legitimately where other people have to do it otherwise. So you can see that the Russians are crafty," he said.

Mr. Holmes did not openly charge the Soviets with mixing diplomacy with espionage

Coat-of-Arms To Be Unveiled

New coat-of-arms of Malvern House School will be unveiled by Rev. Angus Cameron during a ceremony at the school Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Cameron will begin by conducting a flag-raising ceremony at the new flagpole at 3 p.m.

The school has been repainted during the summer and new desks are being installed.

Officials of the school say parents of students past and present as well as students and other children are welcome at the ceremony.

Fierce Brush Fire Ravages Two Acres

A fierce brush fire, believed to have been started by a smouldering stump laid waste two acres of dense bushland on West Saanich Road yesterday.

The blaze started near the home of Herman Henry, 8537 West Saanich Road, on the Cole Bay Indian reserve.

TWO HOURS

Tank trucks from both Sidney and Central Saanich volunteer fire departments pumped in thousands of gallons of water for more than two hours to control the blaze.

A forest service bulldozer relieved the volunteers cutting a trail around the smouldering brush.

Student Fishing Trip Benefits Food Stall

Impulse of three "new entries" at Victoria University to go fishing Wednesday resulted in a neat profit for the Free Food Stall.

Fellow students Ron Firkins, Bill Davidson and Randy Bouchard, all 17 or 18 and all Victoria youths, decided to go out from the Anchorage at Brentwood—fog or no fog.

Soon the fish began to bite. Before they were through they had five fine cod, one 40 pounds, one 35, one 30, one 25 and one 15.

Back at the boathouse they cleaned their catch, cut the whole lot into family-size chunks, bagged them, and put them in the freezer kept there for the Free Food Stall.

"Fishing was fine," they told their families at home.

British Israel Rally Here

Delegates from across Canada are attending the annual convention of the Canadian-British Israel Association which began here yesterday.

After two days of business, delegates will be taken on a scenic drive Saturday and will attend a banquet and social evening.

At 3 p.m. Sunday, W. Howard Benac of Windsor, Ont., will discuss "The Israel-British Origin of Our National Emblems," at a mass meeting at the Crystal Garden.

Convention headquarters is in the Dominion Hotel.

Prams, Plant Stands

Others have an arrangement whereby a bell rings in the manager's office whenever a basket goes beyond the borders.

All are reluctant to use the final solution: prosecution for theft or possession of stolen property. This is a step they can fall back on if too many baskets vanish—but of course, it's most unlikely in Victoria.

'Great Loss' to Victoria

City Comptroller Hamilton-Bound

Board of control of the major Ontario industrial city of Hamilton has recommended Victoria comptroller Dennis Young as its new city treasurer and commissioner of finance.

The board's recommendation need only be ratified by Hamilton's city council to make Mr. Young's appointment official, effective Oct. 24.

NATIVE OF DUNCAN

Mr. Young, 37, a native of Duncan, confirmed last night that he had applied for the Hamilton post "because it is a more challenging position."

Victoria finance chairman and senior alderman Arthur Dowell told the Colonist last night, "I am very sorry to see him go. He will be a great loss. I can't speak too highly of him."

He described the comptroller as "a hard and conscientious worker," and said, "We are losing one of the most invaluable employees we have got in the city—he is very bright and he will go places."

QUALIFIED ACCOUNTANT

Mr. Young, a qualified chartered accountant, joined the city staff in 1950 as assistant comptroller to Henry Watson. When Mr. Watson left the city to go into private industry Mr. Young was appointed to the post.

Tall Hat, Colors Fall Fashion News

The high hat and dramatic new colors are the fashion news this fall. There is no doubt about it and if you happen to see the "Vintage Brilliance" style show at the Hudson's Bay Company yesterday morning and afternoon, you'll agree.

The show is being repeated three times today and twice again tomorrow.

It is worth going to the show just to see the beautiful bridal entourage. The bridal gown of white silk tulle had a voluminous skirt, trimmed with tiny bows in front. A double crown of sequins, seed pearls and diamante held a veil of illusion, softly ruffled around the crown.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My father went to the dentist and got all new teeth. He looks a lot better, but he refuses to eat what my mother puts on the table. All he wants to do is drink beer.

This is causing lots of arguments in our house. Mom says thank you on the 30-day free trial offer. If he had minimal respect for you he wouldn't suggest such a thing.

Dear Ann Landers: This may seem, at first glance, a trifling matter. But, please, before you discard it, give it a minute's thought.

The other evening we were visiting in the home of friends. When we left they slammed the door shut on us seconds after we walked out. It made me feel uncomfortable as if they couldn't wait to get rid of us. This has happened to us before.

When people visit in our home, my wife and I always walk with them to their car or, if the weather is bad, we stand in the doorway until they drive off. It seems rude to do otherwise. Or am I old-fashioned? HOSPITALITY UNLIMITED.

Dear Unlimited: Apparently you and your wife are more gracious than the people you visit. It's bad manners to slam the door shut on people the moment they leave. It is flattering to departing guests to spend the extra minutes with them.

Those times everyone has a good time but you're so sad for ANN LANDERS' booklet. How to be well-dressed in 20 cents to one dollar. Self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Moth Care
Clothes of man-made fibres such as "Terylene" are, of course, mothproof, but woolen garments are most attractive moth bait. Before being put away for the summer all garments should be cleaned and then placed in sealed plastic bags. However, care should be used in putting such deterrents in the bags. Those containing paradichloro benzene crystals have been known to soften plastic bags and hangers. A can of paradichloro benzene placed on the floor of the closet is effective in keeping moths away, and has no effect on plastic bags at normal temperatures.

Mink Appears In Sportswear
By NORA W. MARTIN
PARIS—Smart sports clothes mark a fashion point and rank high with the girls in Paris.

Dior, for instance, presents real eye-openers to sports fans. Instead of the classic leather jackets girls love for casual wear, Yves St. Laurent now proposes a jacket all in black crocodile skin edged in black mink. It could be worn on a motor-bike just as well as in the Rolls. The new "crash helmets" shown by Cardin aren't meant for race-drivers. Made of mink—and to be copied in rabbit and fake-fur—girls will sport them to perhaps just run across the street.

The great Paris milliner Paulette has designed "bathing caps" for winter. Made of black nutria or white rabbit, they are tied under the chin and are just as stream-lined as a diving cap.

Speaking of swimming, Jacques Esterel is showing a "life-jacket" to save your fashion prestige. Made of black mink, sleeveless and tied around the waist, its style is just like the real thing.

Being a good sport, fashion-wise, will mean wearing rib-knit sweaters with huge turtle-necks and bulky sleeves. It will also mean having "panty-skirts," a combination of skirt and pants with the advantages of both.

Shiny kid leather is now con-

Years of Extra Life For Valuable Rugs and Carpets

Do you really know why rugs and carpets wear out? Constant use dulls their beauty by covering bright colors with dirt and grime. But far worse is the grinding away of the actual fibres from which the rug is made by sharp gritty particles deep within the pile. This can be prevented only by professional "deep cleaning" as done by experts at the CARPETORIUM. The people at the CARPETORIUM have the knowledge, use only the finest special cleaning agents and have the best equipment in Western Canada. The cost is most reasonable and estimates are FREE. TIPS FOR PARENTS

By HELEN R. HEWSON

Many parents complain that the weekend meals of their teen folk are sketchy affairs. "They dash in and out to the movies, a party, a game, and don't take time to eat a proper meal—just snatch a bite of this and that."

Why not make a special occasion of at least one of the weekend meals?

It may be Saturday-night supper, or Sunday brunch or supper—but make it a gathering time for all the family and perhaps two or three young guests.

Recently young marrieds were discussing favorite dishes and they remarked on the number of happy family memories that were built around the dinner table.

"Saturday supper in the fall was so exciting in our family. My brothers rushing in from the rugby game and we had big bowls of chili con carne with hunks of tender beef and plenty of red kidney beans."

"We had the scrummiest Sunday brunch. Usually waffles, and mother always put in some whole wheat flour and chopped nuts."

"They were perfect with bacon or little sausage cakes. It was always such a leisurely meal too—about the only time in the week we really took time to talk."

"I loved coming in from skating or the movies with my beak and having cocoa with a fat marshmallow on top and cinnamon toast. Think of the calories! But you can take a lot when you're in your teens."

The secret of the good weekend meal is good planning. The choice of the favorite dish should be a family affair and all the ingredients purchased when the weekend shopping is done.

Teachers Say

Houseboat in Kashmir 'Beautiful Way to Live'

By EILEEN LEAROLD

It's a long way from Mont-grey School to a houseboat in Kashmir.

But a year of planning and saving took two Victoria school teachers there this summer on the trip of their lives. Miss Sheila Stuart who teaches Grade four, and Miss Helen Becker who teaches Grade six at Monterey, not only lived for four luxurious days in a houseboat on Lake Dal, they bought saris in India, funny hats in Greece, sarongs in Bangkok, brocades in Hong Kong, slept on the desert near Cairo, tested the water of the Dead Sea and explored the caves of Bethlehem.

They were gone 69 enchanted days.

The country they feel they would most like to return to is Japan. There for an eight-day stay, they lived in a Japanese inn where they felt more in touch with the customs of the country than in a Western-style hotel.

LUXURY

"Such luxury," sighed the teachers. "All our meals were brought to our rooms, and much of it was cooked in front of us. We found Japan charming, everything looked so cared for, so neat. And as for service, you felt all your wishes were anticipated."

Hong Kong, they found full of contrasts. "The people seemed to be either very rich or very poor, no in-between class."

DESIGN DRESSES

It was here that both teachers had dresses made to their own designs, including materials, for $16 each. Miss Stuart had a Chinese sheath made, but Miss Becker chose a Western dress.

"I found an old catalogue, rather like Simpson-Sears or Eatons. I pointed out the skirt I wanted from one picture, the top and sleeves from two other pictures."

"It was quite astonishing, both dresses were ready in two days. They said if we had been in a rush, they could have been completed in one day. They were beautifully finished."

Like their night in a tent on the Sahara desert, the four days in the Kashmir houseboat had all been planned by a travel agency.

"What a beautiful way to live," said Miss Stuart, "we had five servants—a cook, a guard, a food server, a fire watcher and a maid. We didn't even have to stir for shopping—merchants come to the houseboats selling rugs, jewelry, wools, silks."

Later they saw Manila, Singapore, Lebanon, Jerusalem, Syria, Athens, Istanbul, Rome, Paris and London.

ONLY ONE

On the entire trip they met only one Canadian, "and she was a Canadian touring Syria who actually lives in England now."

Highlights remembered by the Victoria travellers were the air stewardesses of the Indian Air Lines dressed in lovely grey and blue saris—and a trip from New Delhi to Benares when they were the only passengers on a DC-8.

Their advice to anyone following the route they did and at the same time of year is: "Don't take too much clothing with you."

TOO MUCH

"We had far too much. We carried coats we never put on. Slacks and shorts are completely out of place in the East."

Western RED CEDAR Bevel SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln dried siding is the finest available—a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

With its "grow-in" workability, weather resistance and lasting good looks, "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Siding has long been recognized as the standard of quality home construction.

It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architectural style in any setting, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on indoor surfaces as well as exterior.

5 GRADES TO CHOOSE FROM!

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

Made of dry 1 1/2" stock in 20 and 24 inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, bark, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2 inch in 4 inch widths to 4 inch in 12 inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural strength and solidity of the building.

The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and fluted-base principle, makes it an excellent choice for the INSULATION standard.

"FOREST" siding represents an economy to home-builders. Costing less than most other types of siding the finished product underlayment, but where it will not show) to stop formation of a vapor barrier.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?

As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?

If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath, but where it will not show) to stop formation of a vapor barrier.

Dam and Tunnel

Vast Hydro Project
Dream of Nepalese

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—The Nepalese government dreams of building one of the world's largest hydroelectric projects as a giant step toward modernization of this underdeveloped Asian kingdom.

The dream involves a dam and tunnel on the Karnali

River which drains the primitive western end of Nepal. The Karnali offers spectacular opportunities for utilization of water flowing down from the eternal snow of Himalayan peaks.

The question is whether the dream is too big for Nepal. With so many smaller things required to raise the low living standard—improved agricultural methods, schools, roads to let in the modern world—the gigantic, long-range job of building a big power project might be too much.

Still, the dream has taken hold. In April, Prime Minister B. P. Koirala said the idea of developing the Karnali was just a vision of the economic planners. Asked about it recently, Koirala said the vision has become a real hope of his government.

GREAT POWER
The dream was conceived by Dr. Toni Haugen, a Swiss geologist. Haugen has walked all over this rugged country and noted that the Karnali doubles back on itself twice as it descends swiftly through Nepal to the Ganges plain of India. So he suggested cutting a tunnel across one of the loops and dropping the backwaters of a dam down through it to the lower level of the river, gaining tremendous water power. Nepali officials were immediately interested.

Learning to Read
Made Easier
By New Alphabet

LONDON (Reuters)—A new alphabet, with 40 letters, is being taught to children in England. It is the creation of L. J. Pitman, a member of Parliament and grandson of the inventor of "Pitman shorthand."

He believes his alphabet will make learning to read an easier job.

He also believes that it may save the English language from becoming as dead as Latin.

The new alphabet makes it possible for words to be written as they sound. It provides a new letter for sounds frequently used in English, like "th" and "ing."

It also provides different letters for the different sounds of a single vowel, such as the troublesome "O" which appears in such different sounding words as "do," "how" and "women."

NOT WORD REFORM

Pitman insists that his new alphabet is not a spelling reform. It simply is a tool to teach reading. People who can already read never need bother with it.

The important thing is to smooth away the pitfalls of learning to read," he said. "So often children get defeated right at the beginning and get into such an emotional state that they make no further progress."

The new system will be put to the test soon in schools in England and Wales. Pitman has the cooperation of the University of London Institute of Education and the National Institute for Educational Research. He has the blessing of the minister of education and the National Union of Teachers.

The first results will be known somewhere around September, 1962.

NEW LETTERS

The new alphabet drops the ambiguous letters "C," "X" and "Q." But it adds 19 new ones. Among these are separate characters for the "ch," "sh" and "zh" sounds, and for the harsh-sounding "th" as in "the," as well as the softer "th" as in "with." Unfortunately, these new characters cannot be illustrated in conventional print.

At the end of two years learning to read and write the phonetic, 42-letter alphabet, the children in the Pitman experiment will be taught the ordinary alphabet.

Pitman doesn't think that the transition will take much time. "Once they've learned to read, they'll pick up conventional spellings quickly enough from newspapers and street signs."

If the new alphabet works, Pitman thinks it might be extended to teaching foreigners to read and pronounce English correctly.

"It will help all those people—Chinese, Indians and so many others—who have learned English without hearing anyone speak it."

"As things are," he says, "English is becoming a babel. Different dialects are being born, especially in the Far East."

Program Settled

Three topics of wide interest are scheduled for discussion at the fall meetings of the Victoria branch United Nations Association, Dr. A. E. Chatwin, president, announced yesterday.

First will be on the current critical African problem led by Gordon Selman of the University of B.C., at 8 p.m. Friday in the auditorium of the Victoria Public Library.

A second discussion on the significance of international technical assistance will be held on Oct. 31 at Victoria University in a joint meeting with the university extension association. Guest speaker will be Dr. Albert Lepawsky of the UN training centre at UBC.

An address on international finance will be given by Dr. Neil Perry, newly appointed dean of commerce and business administration at UBC, at a third discussion on Nov. 21 at the Victoria Public Library.

Wasp Sting Kills Elderly Woman

WOODBIDGE, England (Reuters) — A 68-year-old woman was killed by a wasp, an inquest here was told. Mrs. Maud Grayston died after being stung by a wasp near the right eye.

Abuse of Power By Policemen 'Special Danger'

OTTAWA (CP)—Special dangers are posed to civil liberties and human rights in Canada through a tendency toward police abuse of power and the Canadian treatment of would-be immigrants, a Toronto lawyer suggests.

And a Toronto law professor says certain lawyers have themselves violated rights and liberties of discriminating, for reasons of race or religion, against aspiring lawyers seeking to take their necessary articling apprenticeship.

BROUGHT FORTH
The points were brought forth in papers prepared for discussion today by the Commonwealth and Empire Law Conference. They were submitted by F. Andrew Brewin, CCF national treasurer as well as a practising lawyer, and

Schools Set Gymnastic Exhibition

Students of Greater Victoria schools and members of the YMCA will combine in a huge physical training display next spring.

Although place and date have yet to be settled, all other plans are well advanced by the Victoria branch, Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

George Grant, supervisor of physical education in Victoria schools, was welcomed back at an association meeting this week after a year on teacher-exchange in Great Britain.

Standards of physical education in Victoria, he said, compare favorably with those of the Old Country.

Cancel Licence, Board Urges

Teacher Walks Out Of 'Primitive' School

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—The Prince George school board has asked that the licence of a teacher who refused to teach be cancelled.

The teacher, Mrs. Jean Nash of Richmond, took one look at tiny Hart Lake School and quit, said Robert Gracie, secretary-treasurer of School District 57.

A spokesman for the department of education said last night that if the Prince George school board makes a formal request for cancellation of the teacher's licence the matter will be investigated.

TOO PRIMITIVE

Mr. Gracie said the teacher informed the board the one-room school, which houses 14 students in a small sawmill community north of here, was too primitive.

"There has been a breach of contract under the Public Schools Act and the board is asking the department of education to cancel Mrs. Nash's teaching licence," he said.

'MISREPRESENTED'
The board was told that Mrs. Nash accepted a position at the school and appointment was sent to her by wire, which she accepted. She arrived Sept. 4 but the next day returned to Richmond, claiming district school superintendent Ken Alexander had "grossly misrepresented the situation."

Mr. Gracie said Mrs. Nash said "the school did not have electricity, was in a filthy condition and was too far away from the highway." He said students were without a teacher for four days until another was found.

"CONTINUOUS LEARNING"

South Africa Liberty 'Ripped Away'

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commonwealth and Empire Law Conference debated the rights of man Thursday under the relentless shadow of events in South Africa.

One British delegate suggested the conference was throwing away its time on questions of nuisance nibblings at human rights and civil liberties while those freedoms were being ripped away wholesale in the African Commonwealth member.

"We ought to address our minds to the questions of South Africa," said the British L. S. Blom-Cooper of London. "What can we do to help the lawyers of South Africa?"

He contrasted what were, to his mind, inconsequential segments of discussion on human rights with the "stark and moving" address from the floor by Johannesburg lawyer Julian Phillips.

Mr. Phillips made a plea for Commonwealth recognition that a battle is being waged in his country against encroachments on rights and liberties.

"There are many lawyers who are continuing the fight for human liberties in South Africa," he told the assembly of Commonwealth lawyers and judges.

Another South African voice heard was that of Allen H. Snijman, representing the Law Societies of the Union.

He said the greatest protection of liberty was free and open access to the courts and party.

Mr. Snijman disagreed sharply with Mr. Phillips on what constitutes civil rights although both are in opposition politically to the Nationalist government which has made the apartheid policy of the separation of the black and white races the backbone of its platform.

Mr. Snijman is a follower of South Africa to address you Commonwealth.

Mr. Snijman said that the vast majority of South Africans view with consternation and horror any suggestion that we leave the Commonwealth.

He closed by saying that he shares fears that the Government of South Africa should become a republic. He will start his country on a split with the Commonwealth.

Lean Year for Limit Catch

Entries in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest continue to prove that Vancouver Island sports fishermen are an assiduous lot.

Fishing everywhere is scratchy but entries keep coming in steadily. The main difference between this and other years is the almost total lack of limit catches reported. Most anglers are getting only one salmon a trip and anyone with two or more can count himself lucky.

Latest entries disclose no "hot" area but each day brings a few more coho into Cowichan Bay and the list from Wiers Beach, while not a big one, might indicate a pick-up in the William Head - Sooke stretch which usually provides fine fishing for silvers about this time of the year.

GENERALISSIMO TRUJILLO ... triple troubles

Nervous Trujillo Eyes Hurricane From Powderkeg

By WILLIAM J. RYAN

CIUDAD TRUJILLO (AP)—Hurricane Donna, roaring across the Caribbean, barely touched the island of Hispaniola. Few were more relieved than Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo Molina, who holds Latin America's record for endurance as a dictator.

The 69-year-old boss of the Dominican Republic began 30 years ago what he now calls "the era of Trujillo." A few days after he took over, the island was hit by a hurricane. The superstitious Trujillo was told by a fortune teller then that he had come into power in a hurricane and would fall during one.

Another sort of storm—a political one—is brewing now. The little country of 3,000,000 seems headed eventually for a major crisis.

Never in his three decades of iron rule and self glorification has the benedicted dictator faced such a formidable combination of political, psychological and economic trouble.

Evidence of Trujillo's interference in Venezuela's internal affairs caused the Organization of American States to decide its 21 members should break relations with Trujillo.

Less than two years ago, most of the population of the Dominican Republic seemed ready to rally behind Trujillo. After a comic-opera invasion attempt from Cuba was repulsed, even Trujillo's enemies at home were for him.

But Trujillo made the incident an excuse for importing enormous amounts of arms and even some mercenary troops from Europe. By its own admission, the Dominican government spent $85,000,000, substantially more than half its total published budget, in a single year for announced objectives of defence.

BUSINESS STAGNATING
Today, business in the island nation is stagnating. Unemployment is on the rise. Incomes are being cut severely. Corporations are closing. Foreign money is not coming in. Tourism has been reduced to a trickle.

Experienced foreign observers on the scene say a latent revolutionary situation has been in existence, centred in the cities, for at least two months. Things could go on as they are for months without any dramatic explosion. But it could break out at any moment.

Borrowing Burdens Churches

EDMONTON (CP)—Heavy borrowing by congregations is increasing the over-all financial problems of the United Church, Rev. V. T. Mooney of Toronto, said Thursday.

Liabilities of the congregations at the end of last year totalled more than $27,500,000, the church treasurer told commissioners attending general council. This was an increase of about seven per cent above that of 10 years ago.

CURRENT WORK

Khrushchev Takes Back Seat

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Nikita Khrushchev will be in the next to last row but Fidel Castro will be right up front when the United Nations General Assembly convenes next week.

The UN yesterday released delegate seating arrangements for the meeting. Under the rules, a name is selected by chance and the remainder follow in alphabetical order.

Burma won the first choice. That put Cuba in the second row and the U.S.S.R. to the far back of the chamber.

CHEK Tagged Poor Imitation

City Station Impugned BBG Hearing Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hearing of a case expected to set a pattern for the granting of increases in power for Canadian television stations near the United States border was opened by the board of broadcast governors here Thursday.

Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the board, made it clear that the BBG's decision will be looked on as a precedent for future cases involving a conflict between the extension of Canadian television and reception of U.S. television.

The board is conducting a three-part inquiry to hear:

1. Complaints that an increase to 100,000 watts in the signal of CHEK-TV, Victoria, is interfering with Greater Vancouver reception of U.S. channels, particularly Seattle's channel 5.

2. Representations from Vancouver Island and mainland viewers.

3. Complaints regarding alleged commercial practices in the Vancouver area which are said to be in contravention of undertakings given by CHEK in regard to advertising solicitation.

REAL ANNOYANCE

Dr. Stewart said at the beginning of the hearing the board does not have to be convinced that there is interference nor "that this is a cause of real annoyance to those who have experienced interference and have found their choice of programs reduced."

Dr. Stewart and three other members of the four conducting the inquiry—Dr. Eugene Forsey of Ottawa was unable to get here for the morning session—heard from four Vancouver MPs who said they have had hundreds of complaints from their constituents about the interference by CHEK-TV.

Ernest Broome (PC—Vancouver South) said the programming provided by CHEK on channel 6 "is just a poor imitation" of the CBC program on CBUT, channel 2, in Vancouver.

He said the prime hours of broadcasting on channel 6 consist mostly of repeats of channel 2 programs and that the balance is inferior in quality.

David Armstrong, president of CHEK, said his station has an obligation under the terms of its original licence to carry certain CBC programs.

FRIVOLOUS EVIDENCE

Albert McPhillips (PC—Victoria) charged that CHEK had been "impugned... with the most frivolous evidence I have ever heard."

"Poor channel 5," they say... what about poor Dave Armstrong? ... All these crocodile tears for channel 5."

He said Greater Vancouver wanted a "one-way street" in asking that CHEK's signal be kept out of the lower mainland area while two Vancouver television signals went into Vancouver Island.

Orders Given Today

Federal Operations, Canadian Magazines Subjects of Probes

OTTAWA (CP)—Commissions today will be handed separate tasks of examining federal government operations with an eye to efficiency and economy and of studying the position of Canadian magazines facing advertising competition from Canadian editions of foreign publications.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told reporters Thursday he will make announcements on the two inquiries today when the cabinet meets for the fifth straight day.

MORE THAN YEAR

A royal commission study of government operations has been mooted for more than a year. Mr. Diefenbaker has referred to it as a "Hoover commission," indicating it will operate along the line of the commission that studied United States government organization and was headed by former president Herbert Hoover.

James Stewart, retired president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, has been tabbed in the speculation as chairman of the commission with Watson Sellar, 67-year-old former auditor-general who retired last year, as vice-chairman.

PRESSING FOR ACTION

Canadian magazines are said to have been pressing since 1958 for action to protect them from Canadian editions of foreign magazines such as Time and Readers Digest.

The former Liberal government had imposed a magazine tax of 20 per cent of the gross advertising revenues of Canadian editions of foreign magazines to protect Canadian publications but it was in effect only from Jan. 1, 1957, until Finance Minister Fleming lifted it in June, 1958, after the Progressive Conservatives came to power.

OUT OF BUSINESS

Since then publishers of Canadian periodicals have made representations to the cabinet that unless they get assistance against foreign publication they will have to go out of business, leaving Canadians almost wholly dependent on United States publications.

The Canadian publishers argue that Canadian advertisers are being attracted to the Canadian editions of American publications by the higher circulation figures, prestige and general popularity of the foreign publications.

Fire-Setter Fined $200

PENTICTON (CP)—Abraham Louie of Keremeos was fined $200 and costs Thursday for setting fires at the headquarters of Barrington Creek, four miles south of Keremeos. Louie pleaded guilty to the charge. He was told that in addition to the fine he would be responsible for the full cost of extinguishing the fire he set.

Secret File Papers Gone

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The defence department disclosed yesterday that one of the two American code workers who defected to Russia had access to secret papers that are missing from the files of the hush-hush National Security Agency.

Defence department general counsel J. Vincent Burke, Jr., also told House investigators that the two turncoat mathematicians could have made copies of other secret documents and taken them with them. But he said there is no evidence thus far which would indicate such to be the case.

NO ACCOMPLICES
Burke further testified that the defence department had no evidence that the defectors were part of an espionage ring. So far as is known, he said, they had no accomplices "here or elsewhere."

But he said some handwritten briefing notes are missing from the security agency and it is not known whether they were destroyed by the author or removed by the defectors. He said one of the defectors, William H. Martin, 29, had access to them.

AID COMMUNICATIONS
Testifying at a hearing of a House armed services subcommittee, Burke said the defection of Martin and Bernon F. Mitchell, could not jeopardize the security of U.S. communications. But he conceded the defectors could aid Soviet communications.

Burke did not say how Martin and Mitchell could assist

... access to file

Soviet communications. However, it was presumed he meant the defectors could inform the Russians of U.S. awareness of Soviet code secrets, thus enabling the Soviets to make code revisions.

Young Girl Sacrificed

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Primitive Mashco Indians of remote South-east Peru burned a 16-year-old girl to death to propitiate their gods, dispatches from Cuzco said Thursday.

A medicine man and his woman companion, who counselled the human sacrifice, were arrested by a police patrol from Cuzco, ancient Inca mountain capital.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—A 50-year-old woman left a finger stuck in a lavatory drain for 25 hours rather than have rescuing firemen "come running and spraying water all over my nice clean house."

Mrs. Mattie L. Anderson's husband, Edward, finally gave up trying to get his wife's finger loose and called firemen. They freed her in a few minutes by cutting the pipe with a pair of snips.

Mrs. Anderson saw a wisp of hair in the drain Tuesday morning and went after it. Her finger stuck.

At 4 p.m. her husband arrived and found the door locked. He thought his wife was shopping and he returned at dark.

He saw a light in the second-floor bathroom called "and learned his wife's predicament. He crawled through a basement window and worked until 4 a.m. Wednesday trying to free his wife after she refused outside help.

Anderson again suggested the fire rescue squad.

"What, and spoil my nice, clean house. Oh, no," Mrs. Anderson exclaimed.

Edward sat his wife on a kitchen stool and went to bed. Wednesday morning, he went downtown, got some plumbers' tools and worked until 11:30 a.m. on the finger.

"I give up," he said, and called firemen.

Super Drug Ignored, Says Senator

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Tennessee Democrat, Dr. Frank Lamont Meleney, former head of Columbia's bacteriological research laboratory, testified Tuesday that bacitracin is "almost always" effective against germs which are resistant to other antibiotics such as penicillin and tetracycline. Kefauver said Meleney's testimony showed the drug was better in many cases than the heavily promoted types sold under trade names. He also said bacitracin was considerably less dangerous than some of the patented drugs. Kefauver indicated he felt that laboratory tests have proved the value of the drug. He said Pfizer, one of the two manufacturers, never advertises bacitracin, possibly because it will "compete with Pfizer's own special products."

UN Troops Rescue Lumumba from Congo Lynch Mob

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Patrice Lumumba narrowly escaped being lynched by a mob of Congolese soldiers Thursday.

They tried to seize the premier after he had sought refuge in the officers' mess of the Ghanaian troops serving with the United Nations force in the Congo. The Ghanaian troops fought them back.

Seven hours later the police force under the control of Col.

Joseph Mobutu, who has emerged as a possible strongman in the chaotic Congo, drove Lumumba through the mob still screaming for his death to his residence.

Lumumba was forced to seek the protection of the Ghanaian troops after Congolese soldiers in Camp Leopold suddenly turned on him while he was trying to drum up support among them to counter Mobutu's bid to put the army in control of the country.

The Congolese were infuriated by reports of casualties among their families in Kasai province.

At least 1,000 persons were reported killed and thousands wounded in the action between Lumumba's troops and secession-minded Baluba tribesmen in Kasai before the UN announced a truce last Saturday. Many of the Congolese soldiers here are Balubas.

Lumumba went to the UN—whose troops he has ordered out of the country several times—for protection. The UN

Ghanaian troops took him to their officers' mess.

Capsule Lost Again

HONOLULU (UPI)—The found-again, lost-again capsule ejected Wednesday from Discoverer XV satellite has disappeared in stormy seas in the Pacific, leaving little chance for its recovery.

A small search party of three airplanes and a ship combed the turbulent area around Christmas Island yesterday, but chances were it might already have sunk.

NO SPECULATION

The air force declined to speculate on the 300-pound capsule's fate, saying only that it was made to float at least 48 hours.

Last reception of the capsule's light beacon and radio homing signal was made at noon after surging seas earlier prevented a circling amphibious plane from landing and plucking it from the water.

BITTER BLOW

Loss of contact with the orange-encased capsule loaded with instruments was a bitter blow to the air force, which had hoped to snag it for the third straight recovery of a Discoverer capsule.

The capsule's ejection Wednesday from orbiting Discoverer XV was successful, but a waiting flotilla of ships and planes near here failed to sight it parachuting to earth and it was feared lost.

OTTAWA (CP)—Army headquarters has devised a master plan for organization and location of the 66 mobile columns it will form for civil defence operations, informed sources said Thursday.

The plan now is in the hands of the army's four major commands across the country for study and comment. It has not yet been formally adopted or approved by the government.

RESPONSIBILITIES

The army assumed its new responsibilities for civil defence—or national survival, as the army calls it—Sept. 1, 1959. No mobile columns are yet functioning.

Forty-four of the mobile columns will be drawn from the militia and 22 from the regular army. They will be of battalion group size, some 800 men.

MAIN TASKS

Main tasks of these columns will be: radiation detection, reconnaissance and rescue.

known as the Triple R assignment.

The army has already stocked enough radiation de-

OUTSIDE CITIES

The mobile columns will be located outside major cities and target areas so that they would be able to swing into rescue action immediately. This will mean emphasis on militia units which have their headquarters in small towns.

RCAF auxiliary squadrons equipped with light transport planes will also be used in the national survival role. The government now has on order planes for this purpose.

RESCUE TEAMS

Each army mobile column will comprise a number of rescue companies of some 150 men each, a support company and a headquarters company.

The columns will be able to operate independently.

Victory in Atlin Boosts CCF Total To 16 B.C. Seats

The CCF increased its membership in the British Columbia legislature to 16 Thursday with the election of CCF candidate Frank Calder in far northern Atlin riding, three days after B.C.'s general election.

Japanese Says:

Welcome Mat Out For Ike

OTTAWA (CP)—Japanese Foreign Minister Kosaka said Thursday he believes there would be no recurrence of the riots and disorders of last May and June if President Eisenhower visited Japan today.

He said he believes the Japanese people have reflected on the events that preceded cancellation of Mr. Eisenhower's visit to Japan and that the American president would be given a hearty welcome.

90 MINUTES

Mr. Kosaka, who is here for talks with External Affairs Minister Green, spoke at a press conference through an interpreter. He held a 90-minute conference with Mr. Green and spent about 20 minutes earlier with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The discussions with Mr. Green covered trade relations between Canada and Japan, he said, but they did not get into specific details. Japan has agreed to hold down exports to Canada in certain sensitive items such as textiles which are competitive with Canadian products.

IMPORT QUOTAS

Toru Hagiwara, Japanese ambassador to Canada who attended the press conference, said some new requests had been made for import quotas on certain products but negotiations still were going on between the two governments.

He declined to specify the items involved, adding that quotas on transistor radios and rubber footwear also had been under discussion since the first of this year and no quota had been set on them for 1961.

With 14 of the 15 polls counted in the sparsely populated riding, Mr. Calder had 334 votes to 250 for William Asselstine, Social Credit member of the last legislature. Conservative candidate Charles Brown had 119.

Only 13 voters were registered in the last of the 15 polls.

Barring a chance through recounts, the standing in the next legislature will be: Social Credit 32, CCF 16, Liberals 4, Total 52.

Mr. Calder's victory represented the fifth seat taken by CCF from Social Credit in last Monday's election.

Social Credit held 38 seats when the last legislature was dissolved. The CCF 10 and the Liberals two, with one independent Labor member and one vacancy.

Atlin was the last constituency to report.

Returning officer Peter Svedberg had to travel by plane and river boat among more than a half-dozen polling places to gather ballots, many of them from Indian reserves.

Mr. Calder, 45, became the first Indian to sit in the B.C. legislature in 1949 when he won the 60,000-square-mile riding for the CCF. He was re-elected in 1952 and 1953, but was defeated by Mr. Asselstine in 1956.

The battle between Mr. Calder and his 69-year-old opponent had been close until Thursday night, when three more polls reported.

With 10 of the 15 polls in the two candidates had each received 244 votes. Two more polls gave Mr. Calder a seven-vote margin—257 to 250. Not a single one of the 77 votes in the next three polls went Mr. Asselstine.

NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV ... entirely new

Nikita Full Of Ideas

LONDON (UPI)—Nikita S. Khrushchev has some "entirely new" disarmament proposals as alternatives to his four-year plan, Russian diplomats in London said yesterday.

The Soviet premier, who will arrive in New York Monday for the United Nations General Assembly, was reported to have several arms cut ideas. Western diplomats said there was no doubt he would try for a propaganda victory by parading before the assembled nations, as the chief advocate of peace through disarmament.

The sources indicated that Khrushchev's proposals would be variations of the theme he expounded at the UN in New York one year ago when he called for total disarmament in four years.

According to the sources, he still basically wants the West to accept that plan. But to make it more palatable he has introduced modifications and has made the time limit subject to negotiation.

Suspects Captured $13,000 Recovered

MONTREAL (CP)—Bandits Thursday staged an unsuccessful holdup at a branch of the Royal Bank in southwest Montreal as the city's crime wave went into its fifth successive day.

Two suspects were arrested following the holdup—the third this week in the city—at the bank's Wellington Street branch.

PILLOW CASES

Police also recovered—at least $13,000 in bills, stuffed in two pillow cases, and two guns and a car.

In another holdup, a University of Montreal messenger was robbed of $6,014 in cash and $52,900 in cheques by two men who drove him and his truck into a curb in west Montreal. The money was fees for about 400 students collected Wednesday during registration.

FIVE OR SIX

The Royal Bank bandits—reported to number five or six—entered the bank and covered 10 employees and 11 customers with automatic pistols. They cleaned out all four of the cash drawers.

Speaking in English, they told employees to open the vault but when they refused they fled and drove in a car which had been parked nearby.

POLICE SPOT CAR

Two police constables spotted the car in the downtown area. When the three occupants saw the police they leaped out. A shot from a constable's revolver injured one, a second was arrested and the third escaped.

The loot, including the two automatics, was found in the car, along with two caps and dark glasses.

Police believe Thursday's holdup was the work of the same gang which robbed a Canadian Bank of Commerce Monday in the north-central area.

The holdup netted $18,787, bringing to $32,987 the total amount of money stolen from the St. Denis Street branch in three holdups since March 10.

'Ethel' Kills Three

MOBILE, Ala. (CP)—Hurricane Ethel, stripped of its power and no longer a hurricane, slammed at the Mississippi coastline Thursday. The storm was blamed for three deaths.

The weather bureau said Ethel's highest winds as the Gulf of Mexico storm moved inland were 65 miles an hour—10 lower than hurricane class—but some gusts topped 80 miles an hour.

Ethel will continue to lose its bite as it moves across land, the weather bureau said. Rainfall will be heavy.

Arch-Enemies Sail Together

CHERBOURG, France (UPI)—President Tito of Yugoslavia and his arch-enemy, Premier Mehmed Shehu of Albania, sailed yesterday aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth for the United Nations session in New York.

Tito, who travelled from Belgrade in a bullet-proof, armor-plated, seven-car, private train, was travelling in far more luxury than Shehu in two expensive suites. He was accorded a big sendoff by Yugoslavs at Cherbourg.

Shehu, a general who attained worldwide notoriety as the "Butcher of Albania" when the Communists were putting down opposition there, arrived at Cherbourg aboard the boat train without fanfare.

It was considered extremely unlikely they would meet aboard the liner. Albania has been an irritant to Tito since his break with the Cominform in 1948, although Albania then apparently was considered too insignificant by the Communists to be a member of the organization.

Shehu proclaimed his opposition to Tito earlier than year when Yugoslavia, according to the Albanian news agency, "treated Albania as a colony."

Shehu opposed Tito's demand to station two divisions in Albania and lost his job as member of the central committee of the party and as chief of staff of the army.

Tito, who has become closer to the West in recent years although still pursuing his own brand of Communism, will be allowed to travel freely in the United States.

Shehu, like Premiers Nikita Khrushchev, Fidel Castro and Hungarian Communist Party chief Janos Kadar, has been restricted to Manhattan Island.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United States and the Soviet Union continued in the United Nations Security Council Thursday with opposing proposals for the Congo.

Russia demanding that the UN stop its "interference" with the government of the young republic.

U.S. delegate James J. Wadsworth and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin each introduced resolutions.

Wadsworth taking a punch at the Soviet Union's supply of military transport planes and other materials to the regime of Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Wadsworth accused the Soviet Union of conducting a campaign of smear and slander against the UN in order to cover up a plot to turn the Congo into a Red satellite.

The U.S. resolution would have the council "reaffirm its request to all states to refrain from any action which might tend to impede the restoration of law and order and in particular to refrain from sending personnel supplies of equipment to be used for military purposes into the Congo other than through the United Nations."

Zorin, in introducing his resolution, renewed his attacks on UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and said the Western aim is "renewed subjection of the Congo, this time under the UN flag."

The resolution called for the withdrawal of the entire UN command—but not the 16,000-man UN force itself. Zorin described the U.S. resolution as amounting to giving a mandate to Hammarskjold to establish a UN trusteeship over the Congo.

'Immortals' Felt Like Tenpins

MANONO, The Congo (AP) — and arrows, attacked Katanga leave, they will be airlifted to Elisabethville in a couple of days. In the streets were the bodies of 35 Baluba tribesmen, 14 of whom were killed Wednesday in a bloody clash with Katanga police. Relatives later carried them away.

Many of the Balubas, who are strong opponents of the Katanga provincial regime and their secessionist forces, roamed state helped start Wednesday's battle.

However, the Balubas are allowing the Irish to hold open a mile-long stretch of road between the airport and the guest house for any whites who want to leave.

The Irish are firmly established in a local school and at the airport. But everything else is idle. The mines have stopped production, there is no water supply and no civic administration.

The tribal warriors burned down the town hall, the house of the civil administrator, the punishment block of the local prison, police barracks, policemen's houses, and the main garage in town.

In addition to the 35 dead, 140 Balubas had 14 wounded. Two Negro policemen were reported killed.

Capt. Pierce Bocky, commander of the Irish detachment, gave this account:

"The trouble started when about 800 Balubas came into town from the surrounding countryside. They got together with the local witch doctor — Nkumbi — the Baluba who is reputed to have magic powers. What happened was that the Katanga army dropped grenades on the African quarter in reprisal for the killing of a Belgian captain in an ambush here a couple of days ago. The grenades dropped in soft muddy ground and failed to go off. As a result, he (Nkumbi) was regarded as immortal. He then prepared mixtures and sold these to Balubas. He annointed them with it and told them: 'White men's bullets cannot harm you!'

"They seemed to believe him. Hundreds of them marched on the town hall and other administrative and police buildings nearby, where police formed up to fight. The Balubas walked into a hail of fire, seeming to believe they could not be hurt. They felt like ten-pins and then the battle began in earnest."

COL. JOSEPH MOBUTU

Taking Over Rule of Nation

Congo Army Strongman Orders Reds Out in Hurry

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — embassies of Russia and her satellites were being shut down and the Communist man, yesterday gave the Russians and other Communists 48 hours to get out of the Congo after proclaiming that the armed forces had taken control of the chaotic nation.

The 30-year-old career soldier, named army chief of staff Wednesday by President Joseph Kasavubu, said the deadlocked power struggle between Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Mobutu called for full support from the United Nations in the sudden move and appealed for co-operation of Congolese and foreign technicians.

No shots were fired and no one was reported severely injured.

"It was a close shave," said a British officer of the Ghanaian force. "The men were very, very angry. It looked as though nothing would stop them."

After the Ghanaian troops had forced the Congolese out of the mess, the Congolese milled around outside. The Ghanaians, aided by a few Congolese police, threw a cordon around the mess hall.

SEVEN HOURS

For seven hours Lumumba and his general were besieged in the building. The Congolese pointed three machine-guns at the mess door but let Ghanaian officers move in and out freely.

Then Mobutu sent his police to the rescue.

Blue-helmeted Ghanaian

Lumumba's white sports shirt was torn.

The police formed a barrier of bayoneted rifles. The truck finally whisked Lumumba away to his residence, as Congolese soldiers shook their fists and roared for his death.

Gen. Lundula chose not to go in the truck. He left by the mess hall's back door. He was not pursued.

But hundreds of aroused soldiers still milled inside the camp and no one would guess what turn events would take.

UN May Set Up Plan To Put Congo On Feet

GENEVA (AP) — The United Nations European headquarters said Thursday it is thinking in terms of a UN program, tremendous in scope, that would run to 1970 or 1975 to put the Congo on its feet.

A basic feature of the program to help the new, troubled republic would place UN advisers and experts under the direct orders of Congolese authorities.

This would give the Congo an administrative structure similar to that of Ghana, where most of the former colonial civil servants from Britain have stayed on to carry out the orders of African superiors.

Strachan to Open Ladysmith Fair

LADYSMITH—CCF leader Robert Strachan will officially open Ladysmith's fall fair Friday at 7.30 p.m., in the Agricultural Hall.

The Lions Club will man the merry-go-round for the children and there are other attractions scheduled. Door prizes are offered both Friday and Saturday evenings of the two-day annual fair.

Mill Bay Ferry Move Still On

DUNCAN — The idea of re-locating the Mill Bay-Brentwood ferry service to a more northerly route has not been dropped.

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi has notified the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce that its suggestion is still under consideration.

The Chamber wants it moved to run from the old Queen Alexandra Solarium site at Mill Bay to near Patricia Bay for better service for up-Island residents using Patricia Bay airport and the Swartz Bay ferries.

DUNCAN — Prizes for the garden club's annual district garden contest will be awarded next month with a complete commentary and pictures.

Presentation of the annual prizes for city and North Cowichan entries will be made Oct. 12 in St. Peter's Church Hall.

Notice of the special meeting was given at the monthly meeting Wednesday night when club president Clare Brynjolfsson gave a talk on growing chrysanthemums in open gardens. J. W. Parkinson spoke on September work in the garden.

Chemainus Rotary Entertains Boys

CHEMAINUS — Some 70 were drawn for prizes; the boys, members of the various first two received baseballs, ball teams at Chemainus, were the other five silver dollars.

Special silver dollar "Good Citizen" award was made to 12-year-old Barry Nicholls, for leaving his portable television set to a Rotary member, Harry Ewart, while he was ill in Chemainus hospital.

'Whopper' Leads Contest

Largest coho ever entered in The Daily Colonist's King Fisherman contest is this 24-pound 13-ounce whopper caught by Mrs. Winnie Stark, 238 First Street, Duncan, yesterday in Cowichan Bay. The fish was identified as a coho by several experts including fisheries inspectors. World record for coho is held by Mrs. Pat Hallberg of Victoria with a 31-pounder caught in 1947. Mrs. Stark landed the fish after a 20-minute fight about 6.30 a.m. She was using a flasher and strip-teaser but believes she had a smaller fish on the line which she was reeling in when the big one hit. By last night the fish had been canned. (Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

Fog-Bound Angler Fined for Fishing In Closed Area

DUNCAN — William R. Bryant of Anacortes, Wash., was fined $10 in court here yesterday for fishing in a closed area of Cowichan Bay.

Fisheries inspector Pat Harrison said he found the U.S. resident more than 600 feet inside the west end of the bay from the tip between Skimere bluff and the south end of the CNR wharf.

Before her husband pleaded guilty, Mrs. Bryant asked the court: "Don't you get a warning when you can't see out there?"

Mr. Harrison admitted there had been fog in the area when he picked up Bryant Wednesday at 4:45 a.m.

Also in court yesterday, Richard R. Ray, Vancouver, was fined $30 for speeding at 70 in a 30 m.p.h. zone on Sherman Road Tuesday. He pleaded guilty.

W. H. Adlington, Cowichan Bay, was fined $20 for failing to yield the right of way prior to an accident at Trans-Canada Highway 1A and Cherry Point Road Saturday.

DUNCAN — The Chamber of Commerce will pick up where it left off because of the election attempts to see Premier Bennett, but couldn't get a meeting arranged. Standing Room Only in Campus Rite

University Fund Near $2,000,000

Victoria University building fund is within $50,000 of the $2,000,000 target set for this year, R. B. Wilson, chairman of the University Development Board, announced last night.

Recent donations, totalling some $34,000 have raised the total to $1,950,000.

"These gifts have helped make possible the construction of the new faculty and classroom block and the planning for the development of a science building and library," Mr. Wilson said.

INITIAL PLANS

Initial plans for the science building were inspected by members of the development board last night, by special invitation from deputy works minister Arnold Webb.

The plans are being drawn by the department of public works. Target for completion of the block is spring, 1962.

"Construction of the new

VERY PLEASED

"We are very pleased with the permanent-type structure which is being built. The building will contain 11 classrooms suitable for the combined seating of 490 students and 27 faculty offices to be used for student counselling and administrative work."

The block is being built to allow for construction of two additional stories for classrooms and offices.

AVAILABLE SPACE

"Between now and Dec. 31 classes will meet in all available space on the campus with many classes being conducted between 4.30 p.m. and 5.30 p.m."

Shortage of accommodation at the university was highlighted yesterday when the traditional opening ceremony had to be held in the new gymnasium-auditorium on the Gordon Head campus.

STANDING ROOM

There was standing room only for some of the 700 students who crowded into the hall—a converted army drill hall.

The university's status this year as a degree-granting institution was emphasized by Judge J. B. Clearihue, president of Victoria University Council, who told students: "This is your alma mater."

"We have the best dance floor in Greater Victoria," he said, referring to the gleaming, newly varnished floor of the hall, "and also the best gymnasium."

"But buildings, dance floors and money don't make a university. We must have two other things—a good faculty and a good student body."

FINEST FACULTY

"Without hesitation I can say we have the finest faculty obtainable by a university of our size and we're proud of it. But we also need good students and therefore, on what you do depends the future of our university."

OUTSTANDING YEAR

Acting principal Robert Wallace described 1960 as an outstanding year in the history of the college.

"It is our privilege, both faculty and students, to be associated with the college in this momentous year," he said.

Mr. Wallace said that at least 50 of the truck's 70 runs to date could have been "life or death cases."

A number of youngsters were seen trying to climb the brass pole.

When Mr. Wallace left the city to go into private industry Mr. Young was appointed to the post.

World War when he served overseas as an RCAF fighter pilot.

Although Victoria council has not so far taken steps to appoint a successor, it is generally felt the job will go to Mr. Young's assistant, James H. Bramley, also a chartered accountant.

New Truck On Display

It was a firemen's holiday last night for members of the city, Saanich and Colwood fire departments who dropped in to see Oak Bay's new fire truck in operation.

Fire chief William Pearson estimated between 500 and 600 persons attended the firehall open house where the new truck's ability to snuff out an oil fire with fog nozzles was demonstrated to the public.

Gear carried on the department's rescue truck donated by Oak Bay Kiwanis Club was on display and Chief Pearson said that at least 50 of the truck's 70 runs to date could have been "life or death cases."

A number of youngsters were seen trying to climb the brass pole.

Area Seen as Home For Class 'B' Fair

Colwood race track and fairgrounds may become the scene of a major reconstruction project and could play host to Vancouver Island's newest venture into harness racing next spring, a spokesman for the B.C. Agricultural Association said last night.

Geoffrey Edgelow, association president, said the federal and provincial governments will be asked for building grants with which to rejuvenate the Colwood plant.

CLASS B FAIR

And if the grants come through the association will seek department of agriculture approval to hold a Class B fair on the grounds in the fall of 1961.

If the plans bear fruit, the race track renovation could bring about Vancouver Island's second venture into harness racing. The increasingly popular sport was staged in Saanich a few years ago, but with marginal success.

NEW DRAWING CARD

Aim of the agricultural association is to make the Colwood grounds suitable for a Class A fair in the future and create a new major drawing card for visitors on lower Vancouver Island.

Mr. Edgelow said that if the building program is sufficiently advanced by next spring the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce may stage its annual fair there at that time.

Rescue Plan Abandoned

Rescue plans were halted when a boat, showing a burning flare and believed to be aground on a reef between Discovery and Trial Islands, finally turned up safe and sound last night at Oak Bay Boathouse.

The unidentified occupants told police they had picked up a burning air force flare, carried it on board for awhile then doused it in the sea because it became "too dangerous."

a major recreational potential to the Greater Victoria and lower Island area.

The association—president called upon residents of Greater Victoria to gauge the potential at first hand by attending a family picnic day there on Sunday.

Most events will get under way at 1.30 p.m. and refreshments will be on sale for those who don't bring their own.

Plane Schedules Should Return To Normal Today

Air transport schedules between Vancouver Island and the B.C. mainland were expected to return to normal today after cancellation of nine TCA flights due to fog yesterday.

Arena Plan Discussion Set Tonight

Three proposed plans for Esquimalt's $300,000 ice and sports arena will be discussed by a special meeting of council tonight.

The sets of plans have been submitted by two Victoria contracting firms and one Nanaimo firm.

A consulting engineer will explain the plans to members of council, pointing out good and bad points.

The matter may be raised publicly during Monday night's regular council meeting.

"I hope we can make a decision on this soon," Reeve A. C. Wurtele said last night.

Charles Cameron was last night installed as president of Victoria branch of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society for the 1960-61 year.

Others installed were Blanche Grant, immediate past president; Kay Inglis, first vice-president; Jack Dirom, second vice-president; Georgina MacKay, secretary; Mrs. Daisie Featherstone, financial secretary; Mrs. Maude Blades, treasurer; George Gunniss, warden; Stuart Kennedy, guardian; Bliss Dysart, outer guard; Ian Duncan, piper; Cameron Purse, pianist; Mrs. John Hadden, chairman; James Henderson, historian.

Members of 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron RCAF (Auxiliary) and No. 80 (Kinsmen) Squadron Royal Canadian Air Cadets will attend 11 a.m. memorial services Sunday commemorating the Battle of Britain.

Following services at First United Church on the corner of Balmoral and Quadra, and at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral, the units led by a band will parade to the cenotaph where a wreath will be placed in memory of members of Commonwealth air forces who fell during the battle.

Two people injured Wednesday evening in a collision at Cook and Fort were still under treatment in Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday.

Mrs. Gertrude B. Buckler, 67, 1015 Collinson, is in "fair" condition with a head injury. John E. Boyle, 27, of 2375 Rosario, suffered possible broken ribs and internal injuries. His condition was good.

Mrs. Buckler was driver of one of the cars involved; Boyle was passenger in the other car, driven by Ernest F. Marshall, 60, of 958 Victoria.

Socreds Set Convention

More than 400 party delegates are expected to attend the annual Social Credit League convention in Vancouver Nov. 4 and 5.

Convention chairman Noel Murphy, president of the league, said yesterday Premier W. A. C. Bennett will be the principal speaker and that major business of the convention will be the election of three new vice-presidents.

Nikita Curbed As Spy Check

Americans have restricted Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to Manhattan because they know that Russian aircraft accompanying him elsewhere would be equipped with photographic espionage equipment, an ex-RAF officer suggested here last night.

Sqdn. Ldr. Jack Holmes told Oak Bay Kiwanis Club that a fighter pilot under his command once took an aerial photograph of a Russian TU-104 aircraft which "had at least 16 camera portholes open" during a "diplomatic mission" from the continent to England.

He implied that Americans are aware of such tactics and that they restricted Khrushchev's movements in retaliation for Russia's recent spy trial of American U-2 pilot Francis G. Powers rather than out of concern for Khrushchev's safety.

"The Russians do it (spy flights) legitimately where other people have to do it otherwise. So you can see that the Russians are crafty," he said.

Mr. Holmes did not openly charge the Soviets with mixing diplomacy with espionage

Fierce Brush Fire Ravages Two Acres

A fierce brush fire, believed to have been started by a smouldering stump laid waste two acres of dense bushland on West Saanich Road yesterday.

The blaze started near the home of Herman Henry, 8537 West Saanich Road, on the Cole Bay Indian reserve.

TWO HOURS

Tank trucks from both Sidney and Central Saanich volunteer fire departments pumped in thousands of gallons of water for more than two hours to control the blaze.

A forest service bulldozer relieved the volunteers cutting a trail around the smouldering brush.

670 Entries In for Show

A record 670 entries have been received for the fall show of the Victoria Horticultural Society which opens today at 2 p.m. at the Crystal Garden.

This year's show which has double the number of entries received last year, will be open until 10 p.m. today and from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. tomorrow.

Student Fishing Trip Benefits Food Stall

Impulse of three "new entries" at Victoria University to go fishing Wednesday resulted in a neat profit for the Free Food Stall.

Fellow students Ron Firkins, Bill Davidson and Randy Bouchard, all 17 or 18 and all Victoria youths, decided to go out from the Anchorage at Brentwood—fog or no fog.

Soon the fish began to bite. Before they were through they had five fine cod, one 40 pounds, one 35, one 30, one 25 and one 15.

Back at the boathouse they cleaned their catch, cut the whole lot into family-size chunks, bagged them, and put them in the freezer kept there for the Free Food Stall.

"Fishing was fine," they told their families at home.

British Israel Rally Here

Delegates from across Canada are attending the annual convention of the Canadian-British Israel Association which began here yesterday.

After two days of business, delegates will be taken on a scenic drive Saturday and will attend a banquet and social evening.

At 3 p.m. Sunday, W. Howard Bennett of Windsor, Ont., will discuss "The Israeli Origin of Our National Emblems," at a mass meeting at the Crystal Garden.

Convention headquarters is in the Dominion Hotel.

Laundry Carriers

Only Odd Shopping Buggy Rustled

The occasional shopping buggy, or "basket," may be "rustled" from Victoria stores, but on the whole this city enjoys a better reputation for their care and return than many other centres.

Elsewhere (well, OCCASIONALLY here too) the baskets are found by customers to have many more convenient uses than carrying groceries around, the big stores.

When a store's stock of buggies seems diminished, the manager or a clerk may scout around the neighbourhood. These are some of the things

Buggies busy as laundry carriers in home basements or apartment laundry-rooms.

Buggies doubling as baby prams.

Buggies used as free-wheeling wagons by small boys on hills (this is a matter of grave concern, because of the danger involved).

A recent release issued by the Super Market Institute Inc. in the United States, says that in that country shopping-buggy rustlers are costing grocery markets $25,000,000 annually for missing and damaged buggies.

Since the larger baskets cost about $50 each, it can be understood why the managers and operators are concerned.

Officials of the school say parents of students past and present as well as students and other children are welcome at the ceremony.

Some markets won't allow the baskets to leave their parking lots at all, although most let the customers wheel their purchases out to their cars in the wired vehicles.

U.S. supermarket operators, apparently with a bigger loss problem, have devised ingenious methods of preventing rustling of their baskets.

Some have equipped the baskets with wheels that lock tight when they pass over a magnetic field surrounding the market's parking lot. This may sometimes spill both groceries and customer, but it keeps the basket in the lot.

Others have an arrangement whereby a bell rings in the manager's office whenever a basket goes beyond the borders.

All are reluctant to use the final solution: prosecution for theft or possession of stolen property. This is a step they can fall back on if too many baskets vanish—but of course, it's most unlikely in Victoria.

UN Troops Rescue Lumumba from Congo Lynch Mob

LEOPOLDBVILLE (AP)—Patrice Lumumba narrowly escaped being lynched by a mob of Congolese soldiers Thursday.

They tried to seize the premier after he had sought refuge in the officers' mess of the Ghanaian troops serving with the United Nations force in the Congo. The Ghanaian troops fought them back.

Seven hours later the police force under the control of Col.

Joseph Mobutu, who has emerged as a possible strongman in the chaotic Congo, drove Lumumba through the mob still screaming for his death to his residence.

Lumumba was forced to seek the protection of the Ghanaian troops after Congolese soldiers in Camp Leopold suddenly turned on him while he was trying to drum up support among them to counter Mobutu's bid to put the army in control of the country.

The Congolese were infuriated by reports of casualties among their families in Kasai province.

At least 1,000 persons were reported killed and thousands wounded in the action between Lumumba's troops and secessionist Baluba tribesmen in Kasai before the UN announced a truce last Saturday. Many of the Congolese soldiers here are Balubas.

Lumumba went to the UN whose troops he has ordered out of the country several times—for protection. The UN

Ghanaian troops took him to their officers' mess.

66 Flying Columns Ready for Crisis

Capsule Lost Again

HONOLULU (UPI)—The found-again, lost-again capsule ejected Wednesday from Discoverer XV satellite has disappeared in stormy seas in the Pacific, leaving little chance for its recovery.

A small search party of three airplanes and a ship combed the turbulent area around Christmas Island yesterday, but chances were it might already have sunk.

NO SPECULATION

The air force declined to speculate on the 300-pound capsule's fate, saying only that it was made to float at least 48 hours.

BITTER BLOW

Loss of contact with the orange-crate-sized capsule loaded with instruments was a bitter blow to the air force, which had hoped to snag it for the third straight recovery of a Discoverer capsule.

The capsule's ejection Wednesday from orbiting Discoverer XV was successful, but a waiting flotilla of ships and planes near here failed to sight it parachuting to earth and it was feared lost.

OTTAWA (CP)—Army headquarters has devised a master plan for organization and location of the 66 mobile columns it will form for civil defence operations, informed sources said Thursday.

The plan now is in the hands of the army's four major commands across the country for study and comment. It has not yet been formally adopted or approved by the government.

RESPONSIBILITIES

The army assumed its new responsibilities for civil defence—or national survival, as the army calls it—Sept. 1, 1959. No mobile columns are yet functioning.

Forty-four of the mobile columns will be drawn from the militia and 22 from the regular army. They will be of battalion group size, some 800 men.

MAIN TASKS

Main tasks of these columns will be: radiation detection, reconnaissance and rescue.

The army has already stocked enough radiation detection equipment to supply the mobile columns. But some transport vehicles remain to be acquired.

OUTSIDE CITIES

The mobile columns will be located outside major cities and target areas so that they would be able to swing into rescue action immediately. This will mean emphasis on militia units which have their headquarters in small towns.

RCAP auxiliary squadrons equipped with light transport planes will also be used in the national survival role. The government now has on order planes for this purpose.

RESCUE TEAMS

Each army mobile column will comprise a number of rescue companies of some 150 men each, a support company and a headquarters company. The columns will be able to operate independently.

New Montreal Holdups

Crime Wave In Fifth Day

MONTREAL (CP)—Bandits Thursday staged an unsuccessful holdup at a branch of the Royal Bank in southwest Montreal as the city's crime wave went into its fifth successive day.

Japanese Says:

Welcome Mat Out For Ike

OTTAWA (CP)—Japanese Foreign Minister Kosaka said Thursday he believes there would be no recurrence of the riots and disorders of last May and June if President Eisenhower visited Japan today.

He said he believes the Japanese people have reflected on the events that preceded cancellation of Mr. Eisenhower's visit to Japan and that the American president would be given a hearty welcome.

90 MINUTES

Mr. Kosaka, who is here for talks with External Affairs Minister Green, spoke at a press conference through an interpreter. He held a 90-minute conference with Mr. Green and spent about 20 minutes earlier with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The discussions with Mr. Green covered trade relations between Canada and Japan, he said, but they did not get into specific details. Japan has agreed to hold down exports to Canada in certain sensitive items such as textiles which are competitive with Canadian products.

IMPORT QUOTAS

Toru Hagiwara, Japanese ambassador to Canada who attended the press conference, said some new requests had been made for import quotas on certain products but negotiations still were going on between the two governments.

He declined to specify the items involved, adding that quotas on transistor radios and rubber footwear also had been under discussion since the first of this year and no quota had been set on them for 1961.

Two suspects were arrested following the holdup—the third this week in the city—at the bank's Wellington Street branch.

PILLOW CASES

Police also recovered at least $13,000 in bills, stuffed in two pillow cases, and two guns and a car.

In another holdup, a University of Montreal messenger was robbed of $6,014 in cash and $52,900 in cheques by two men who drove him and his truck into a curb in west Montreal. The money was fees for about 400 students collected Wednesday during registration.

FIVE OR SIX

The Royal Bank bandits—reported to number five or six—entered the bank and covered 10 employees and 11 customers with automatic pistols. They cleaned out all four of the cash drawers.

Speaking in English, they told employees to open the vault but when they refused they fled and drove in a car which had been parked nearby.

POLICE SPOT CAR

Two police constables spotted the car in the downtown area. When the three occupants saw the police they leaped out. A shot from a constable's revolver injured one, a second was arrested and the third escaped.

The loot, including the two automatics, was found in the car, along with two caps and dark glasses.

Police believe Thursday's holdup was the work of the same gang which robbed a Canadian Bank of Commerce Monday in the north-central area.

The holdup netted $18,787, bringing to $32,987 the total amount of money stolen from the St. Denis Street branch in three holdups since March 10.

NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV ... entirely new

Nikita Full Of Ideas

LONDON (UPI)—Nikita S. Khrushchev has some "entirely new" disarmament proposals as alternatives to his four-year plan, Russian diplomats in London said yesterday.

The Soviet premier, who will arrive in New York Monday for the United Nations General Assembly, was reported to have several arms cut ideas. Western diplomats said there was no doubt he would try for a propaganda victory by parading before the assembled nations as the chief advocate of peace through disarmament.

The sources indicated that Khrushchev's proposals would be variations of the theme he expounded at the UN in New York one year ago when he called for total disarmament in four years.

According to the sources, he still basically wants the West to accept that plan. But to make it more palatable he has introduced modifications and has made the time limit subject to negotiation.

U.S., Russia Trade Barbs Over Congo Proposals

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 16 (UPI)—The United States and the Soviet Union collided in the United Nations Security Council Thursday with opposing proposals for the Congo, Russia demanding that the UN stop its "interference" with the government of the young republic.

U.S. delegate James J. Wadsworth and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin each introduced resolutions, Wadsworth taking a punch at the Soviet Union's supply of military transport planes and other materials to the regime of Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Wadsworth accused the Soviet Union of conducting a campaign of smear and slander against the UN in order to cover up a plot to turn the Congo into a Red satellite.

The UN resolution would have the council "reaffirm its request to all states to refrain from any action which might tend to impede the restoration of law and order and in particular to refrain from sending personnel, supplies of equipment to be used for military purposes into the Congo other than through the United Nations."

Zorin, in introducing his resolution, renewed his attacks on UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and said the Western aim is "renewed subjugation of the Congo, this time under the UN flag."

The resolution called for the withdrawal of the entire UN command—but not the 16,000-man UN force itself. Zorin described the U.S. resolution as amounting to giving a mandate to Hammarskjöld to establish a UN trusteeship over the Congo.

Calder Returned To Legislature

The CCF increased its membership in the British Columbia legislature to 16 Thursday with the election of CCF candidate Frank Calder in far northern Atlin riding, three days after B.C.'s general election.

With 14 of the 15 polls counted in the sparsely populated riding, Mr. Calder had 334 votes to 250 for William Assestine, Social Credit member of the last legislature. Conservative candidate Charles Brown had 119.

Only 13 voters were registered in the last of the 15 polls.

Barring a chance through recounts, the standing in the next legislature will be: Social Credit 32, CCF 16, Liberals 4. Total 52.

Mr. Calder's victory represented the fifth seat taken by CCF from Social Credit in last Monday's election.

Social Credit held 38 seats when the last legislature was dissolved, the CCF 10 and the Liberals two, with one Independent Labor member and one vacancy.

Atlin was the last constituency to report.

Returning officer Peter Svedberg had to travel by plane and river boat among more than a half-dozen polling places to gather ballots, many of them from Indian reserves.

Mr. Calder, 45, became the first Indian to sit in the B.C. legislature in 1949 when he won the 60,000-square-mile riding for the CCF. He was re-elected in 1952 and 1953, but was defeated by Mr. Assestine in 1956.

The battle between Mr. Calder and his 69-year-old opponent had been close until Thursday night, when three more polls reported.

With 10 of the 15 polls in, the two candidates had each received 244 votes. Two more polls gave Mr. Calder a seven-vote margin—257 to 250. Not a single one of the 77 votes in the next three polls went Mr. Assestine.

'Ethel' Kills Three

MOBILE, Ala. (CP)—Hurricane Ethel, stripped of its power and no longer a hurricane, slammed at the Mississippi coastline Thursday. The storm was blamed for three deaths.

The weather bureau said Ethel's highest winds as the Gulf of Mexico storm moved inland were 65 miles an hour—10 lower than hurricane class—but some gusts topped 80 miles an hour.

Ethel will continue to lose its bite as it moves across land, the weather bureau said. Rainfall will be heavy.
